Smith, 2009 Mesa Verde National Park was America's first cultural park and also the world's first cultural heritage park Created in 1906 it preserves the sites and materials of the prehistoric Puebloan people Located in southwestern Colorado near the famous Four Corners where the states of Colorado Utah Arizona and New Mexico meet the magnificent Mesa Verde is situated in Montezuma County just south of Cortez and directly west of Durango The park's rich archaeological history was played out amid some of the most ruggedly beautiful landscapes in the West The greater story of the evolution of the park encompasses the Ute people Theodore Roosevelt novelist Willa Cather and other personalities These remarkable vintage photographs tell that saga which is as fascinating as that of the Pueblos Mesa Verde's Secret Garden Christopher Barns, 2025-05-13 Mesa Verde National Park is the only congressionally designated land based Wilderness to prohibit all recreational use While backcountry use was encouraged for decades stewardship changed over time as gardening the park for aesthetic purposes decreased while secrecy increased The reasons for these changes as Christopher Barns discovered are multifaceted but ultimately they reflect a desire to protect the park's thousands of archaeological sites including six hundred Ancestral Puebloan cliff dwellings while allowing natural processes to continue However much of the park is without recognizable cultural features and if the public is prohibited from experiencing the surrounding landscape Barns asks what is being protected and for whom Mesa Verde's Secret Garden is an authoritative history of Mesa Verde National Park's management The book utilizes unpublished primary sources from the park's archives including internal memos public reports interviews and anonymous marginalia and contextualizes them in the evolving and often conflicting federal and local priorities for Wilderness conservation and the national parks The result of this painstaking research is a fascinating chronicle of national park administration and development over a nearly 120 year history that provides unique insights into the people and protocols that have shaped the very landscape of Mesa Verde the landscape fostered through years of exploration and research provides readers with a unique perspective on the historical complexities of the park This book is a must read for nature enthusiasts history buffs and anyone captivated by the mysteries of ancient civilizations Hall s expertise and passionate storytelling invite readers to step into a world where the past comes alive offering insights that extend beyond the boundaries of the park It serves not only as a guide but also as an essential resource for understanding the cultural significance of Mesa Verde

Antiquities of the Mesa Verde National Park : Cliff Palace Jesse Walter Fewkes, 2013 Antiquities of the Mesa Verde National Park Cliff Palace In his excellent work on the ruins of the Mesa Verde Baron Nordenskiöld speaks of calcined human bones being found in a stone cist at Step House and Mr Wetherill is referred to as having observed evidence of cremation elsewhere among the Mesa Verde cliff dwellings There can be no doubt from the observations made in the refuse heaps at Cliff Palace that the inhabitants of this village not only burned their dead but there was a special room in the depths of the cave which was set aside for that purpose One of these rooms situated at the northern end of the refuse heap was excavated in the progress of the work and found to contain bushels of very fine phosphate ashes mixed with fragments of bones some of which are well enough preserved to enable their identification as human Accompanying these calcined bones were various mortuary objects not unlike those occurring in graves where the dead were not cremated The existence of great quantities of ashes largely containing phosphates apparently derived from the burned bones forming much of the refuse and the densely smoke blackened roof of the cave above them are interpreted to indicate that the dead were cremated in the cave back of the houses In addition to these burning places or crematories in the rear of the buildings of Cliff Palace there is good evidence of the same practice on the mesa top Here and there especially in the neighborhood of the clearings where the cliff dwellers formerly had their farms are round stone inclosures oftentimes several feet deep in which occur great quantities of bone ashes fragments of pottery and some stone objects The surface of the stones composing these inclosures shows the marks of intense fire which taken in connection with the existence of fragments of human bones more or less burned indicate that the dead were cremated in these inclosures It is not clear however that the dead were not interred before cremation and there is reason for believing that the bodies were dried before they were committed to the flames The mortuary offerings especially pottery seem to have been placed in the burning places after the heat had subsided for beautiful jars showing no action of fire were found in some of these inclosures The existence of cremation among the cliff dwellers is offered as an explanation of the great scarcity of skeletons in their neighborhood When it is remembered that Cliff Palace must have had a population of several hundred judging from the number of the buildings and was inhabited for several generations it otherwise would be strange that so few skeletons were found It would appear that the chiefs or the priestly class were buried either in the ground or in the floors of the rooms which were afterward sealed whereas the bodies of the poorer class or the people generally were cremated The former existence of Pueblo peoples who buried their dead in the region between the Gila valley and Mesa Verde where the dead were cremated is a significant fact but further observations are necessary before it can be interpreted It may be that in ancient times all the sedentary tribes practiced cremation and that the region in question was settled after this custom had been abandoned Reports of the Superintendent of the Mesa Verde National Park ,1908 Antiquities of the Mesa Verde National Park, Sprucetree House Jesse Walter Fewkes,1909 General information regarding Mesa Verde national park. Season of 1912 United States. Department of the Interior,1912
