Methods and Morals in the Life Sciences Wim J. van der Steen, Vincent K.Y. Ho, 2001-04-30 Most researchers would be amazed to discover that opinions they have about cherished themes in biology and medicine are biased Van der Steen and Ho contend that logic and methodology are not well applied in biology and medicine arguing that the impact of social and moral factors on claims within these two disciplines is underestimated In response to this situation Van der Steen and Ho present tools from logic and ethics for assessing existing literature These tools will help to create sound articles and materials in the life sciences After reviewing logic and methodological approaches broad guidelines are used to place science in a social context Examples from life sciences illustrate the implementation of logic methodology and guidelines in forty five brief case studies Each study includes comments on quoted and paraphrased passages from a single article or book Cross references facilitate the assimilation of lessons from the text Students researchers and scholars in biology biomedicine philosophy and ethics as applied to the life sciences will find this guide useful in improving their research and writing skills

Cultural forces shape much of medicine including psychiatry and medicine shapes much of our culture Medicine provides us with beneficial treatments of disease but it also causes harm increasingly so in the form of overmedication enhanced by the pharmaceutical industry The book explores boundaries of medicine and psychiatry in a cultural setting by building bridges between unconnected literatures Boundaries have to be redrawn since effects of the environment biological social and political on health and disease are undervalued Potential beneficial effects of diet therapies are a recurrent theme throughout the text with particular emphasis on omega 3 fatty acids Deficiencies of these acids in common diets may contribute to many chronic diseases and psychiatric disorders The book uncovers limitations of evidence based medicine which fosters a restrictive view of health and disease Case studies include the biology of migraine limitations of biological psychiatry conventional versus alternative medicine science religion and near death experiences Forthcoming Books
