

HELP IS AT HAND

Family members of people with delirium can make a difference by doing the following

- Talking to them in short, simple sentences — and repeating if required — so they can understand easily
- Keeping them oriented and reminding them of what is happening in the surroundings
- Reminding them of the time and date; making sure they can read the calendar and clock
- Ensuring they have access to their glasses and hearing aid
- Providing access to a window so they can look outside; keeping the lights on at night so they can see where they are if they wake up
- Listening and providing reassurance when required
- Playing soothing music
- Making sure they eat and drink properly
