Gender and Violence in the Middle East David Ghanim Ph.D.,2009-03-20

Gender and Violence in the Middle East argues that violence is fundamental to the functioning of the patriarchal gender structure that governs daily life in Middle Eastern societies Ghanim contends that the inherent violence of gender relations in the Middle East feeds the authoritarianism and political violence that plague public life in the region In this societal sense men as well as women may be said to be victims of the structural violence inherent in Middle Eastern gender relations The author shows that the varieties of physical violence against women for which the Middle East is notorious honor killings obligatory beatings female genital mutilation are merely eruptions of an ethos of psychological violence and the threat of physical violence that pervades gender relations in the Middle East Ghanim documents and analyzes the complementary roles of both sexes in sustaining the system of violence and oppressive control that regulates gender relations in Middle Eastern societies He reveals that women are not only victims of violence but welcome the opportunity to become perpetrators of violence in the married female life cycle of subordination followed by domination The mother in law plays a crucial role in supporting the structure of patriarchal control by stoking tensions with her daughter in law and provoking her son to commit sanctioned violence on his wife The author applies his deep analysis of gender and violence in the Middle East to illuminate the motivational profiles of male and female political suicidalists from the Middle East and the martyrological adulation that they are accorded in Middle Eastern societies

Gender and the Making of Modern Medicine in Colonial Egypt Hibba Abugideiri,2016-04-15

Gender and the Making of Modern Medicine in Colonial Egypt investigates the use of medicine as a tool of empire to serve the state building process in Egypt by the British colonial administration It argues that the colonial state effectively transformed Egyptian medical practice and medical knowledge in ways that were decidedly gendered On the one hand women medical professionals who had once trained as doctresses hakimas were now restricted in their medical training and therefore saw their social status decline despite colonial modernity s promise of progress On the other hand the introduction of colonial medicine gendered Egyptian medicine in ways that privileged men and masculinity Far from being totalized colonial subjects Egyptian doctors paradoxically reappropriated aspects of Victorian science to forge an anticolonial nationalist discourse premised on the Egyptian woman as mother of the nation By relegating Egyptian women whether as midwives or housewives to maternal roles in the home colonial medicine was determinative in diminishing what control women formerly exercised over their profession homes and bodies through its medical dictates to care for others By interrogating how colonial medicine was constituted Hibba Abugideiri reveals how the rise of the modern state configured

the social formation of native elites in ways directly tied to the formation of modern gender identities and gender inequalities in colonial Egypt

Rethinking Muslim Women and the Veil Katherine Bullock, 2007-01-01 Until now the bulk of the literature about the veil has been written by outsiders who do not themselves veil This literature often assumes a condescending tone about veiled women assuming that they are making uninformed decisions choices about veiling makes them subservient to a patriarchal culture and religion Rethinking Muslim Women and the Veil offers an alternative viewpoint based on the thoughts and experiences of Muslim women themselves This is the first time a clear and concise book length argument has been made for the compatibility between veiling and modernity Katherine Bullock uncovers positive aspects of the veil that are frequently not perceived by outsiders Rethinking Muslim Women and the Veil looks at the colonial roots of the negative Western stereotype of the veil It presents interviews with Muslim women to discover their thoughts and experiences with the veil in Canada The book also offers a positive theory of veiling The author argues that in consumer capitalist cultures women can find wearing the veil a liberation from the stifling beauty game that promotes unsafe and unhealthy ideal body images for women This book also includes an extensive bibliography on topics related to Muslim women and the veil
