Redesigning Accountability:

Redesigning Accountability Systems for Education Susan H. Fuhrman, Richard F. Elmore, Redesigning Teaching William A. Firestone, Beth D. Bader, 1992-01-01 Redesigning Teaching provides concrete case studies of school districts implementing teacher reforms The cases describe the changes give the history and dynamics of each project examine how teachers respond to new policies and procedures and tell how state policy affects local efforts to change teaching The book also suggests that while short term improvements can be accomplished through bureaucracy serious reform requires professionalization The authors identify challenges that state governments school administrators and teachers associations must face if they really want to professionalize teaching Redesigning Schools for Success Charles E. Ruebling, 2006 Who's in Charge Here? Noel Epstein, 2004-09-27 Few Americans are aware that their nation long ago created a separate government for education supposedly to shield it from political interference Some experts believe that at the heart of today's school debates is a push to put the larger government presidents governors mayors in the drivers seat or even to dump democratic school governance entirely The results are mixed One clear result however is a vexing tangle of authority and accountability Whos in Charge Here untangles it all Redesigning Accountability Systems for Education. CPRE Policy Briefs. RB-38 Susan H. Fuhrman, 2003 To assist in the redesign of accountability systems the Consortium for Policy Research in Education CPRE and the Center for Research on Evaluation Student Standards and Testing CRESST sought to assemble knowledge from new research on emerging accountability systems A book Redesigning Accountability Systems for Education edited by Susan H Fuhrman and Richard F Elmore Teachers College Press in press contains chapters by leading accountability researchers This issue of CPRE Policy Briefs summarizes the book by focusing on four questions the authors of the book address 1 How valid are new accountability systems 2 How fair are new accountability systems 3 What are the effects of new accountability systems and 4 What is necessary to improve the functioning of accountability systems This Policy Brief reviews the many issues that states are confronting as they implement accountability systems and provides guidance for states looking to fine tune or redesign accountability systems to help meet policies as they were intended Specifically this Brief offers recommendations for improving accountability systems by enhancing the use of expert technical advice by improving the collection and interpretation of system data and by investing in capacity building to ensure that both students and educators have the necessary means to effectively respond to accountability systems Contains 1 footnote Using Data to Improve Student Learning Graham S. Maxwell, 2021-04-21 This book offers a coherent research based overview and analysis of theories and practices in using data to improve student learning It clarifies what use of data means and differentiates the different levels of decision making in education relating to the system district school classroom or individual student The relationship between data and decision making is considered and various movements in the use of data to improve student learning are analysed especially from the perspective of their assumptions and effects This leads to a focus on effective educational decision making as a social process requiring collaboration among all relevant participants It also requires a clear understanding of educational aims and these are seen to transcend what can be assessed by standardised tests The consequences of this analysis for decision processes are explored and conclusions are drawn about what principles might best guide educational practice as well as what ambiguities remain Throughout the focus is on what existing research says about each of the issues explored
