

REFERENCE GROUP (SOCIOLOGY)

A reference group is a group of people whose norms influence a person's behaviors. We use the group as a 'frame of reference' to make behavioral decisions.

DEFINITION

The concept of reference groups gives us a lens through which we can understand how group norms influence our behaviors. It demonstrates that we tend to want emulate the behaviors of the groups we identify with or aspire toward (our 'in groups'), and avoid behaviors of the groups with which we do not identify (our 'out groups').

EXAMPLES

- Membership Reference Groups: Groups with which we feel affiliation, so we try to uphold their norms and behaviors.
- Aspirational Reference Groups: Groups we aspire to be part of, so we emulate their behaviors and norms.
- Dissociative Reference Groups: Groups a person wants to ensure they are not associated with.

Neuliep, 2016-12-27 In the fully updated Seventh Edition of Intercultural Communication A Contextual Approach bestselling author James W Neuliep provides a clear contextual model visually depicted by a series of concentric circles for examining communication within cultural microcultural environmental sociorelational and perceptual contexts Students are first introduced to the broadest context the cultural component of the model and progress chapter by chapter through the model to the most specific dimensions of communication Each chapter focuses on one context and explores the combination of factors within that context including setting situation and circumstances Highlighting values ethnicity physical geography and attitudes the book examines means of interaction including body language eye contact and exchange of words as well as the stages of relationships cross cultural management intercultural conflict and culture shock Sociological Theory in Use (RLE Social Theory) Kenneth Menzies, 2014-08-21 Central to most sociologists self image is the claim that their theories are based on research However using a random sample of 680 articles appearing in major American British and Canadian journals Dr Menzies shows that in some areas of sociology the wide gap between theory and research means that much of sociological theory is virtually untested He explains how theory is embodied in eight particular types of research critically examines these research theories and contrasts them with the positions of modern theorists The sample of journal articles also permits a comparison of British American and Canadian sociology By contrasting on how researchers use theories Dr Menzies is able to reassess several theories For instance symbolic interactionist research uses embedded causal claims and stands in a dialectical relationship to other sociological research while the research version of conflict theory depends on external causes to explain social change The implications of using statistical techniques like factor analysis and regression are also considered in relation to the form of explanation
