loss and degradation have caused a decline in the quality of ecosystem services around the world. But fixing the problem takes more than just planting trees; practitioners increasingly realize that a landscape approach is essential. This handbook, authored and edited by international authorities in the field of forestry, is the first practical guide to using forest landscape restoration (FLR) to repair the damage done to forest lands by poor land management practice. Using research backed by respected institutions such as ITTO and the World Conservation Union (IUCN), it explains how to increase the resilience of landscapes and the communities they support through FLR. The main aim of FLR is not to re-establish pristine forest even if this were possible; rather, the objective is to make landscapes more resilient and thereby keep future management options open. It also aims to support communities as they strive to increase and sustain the benefits they derive from land management. This book explains the concept of FLR and guides the reader through the steps that must be taken to put it into practice. It is an indispensable aid for practitioners in all aspects of forestry and natural resource management.

Adaptive Collaborative Management in Forest Landscapes Carol J. Pierce Colfer, Ravi Prabhu, Anne M. Larson, 2021-12-12. This book examines the value of Adaptive Collaborative Management for facilitating learning and collaboration with local communities and beyond, utilising detailed studies of forest landscapes and communities. Many forest management proposals are based on top-down strategies such as the Million Tree Initiatives, Forest Landscape Restoration (FLR) and REDD, often neglecting local communities. In the context of the climate crisis, it is imperative that local peoples and communities are an integral part of all decisions relating to resource management. Rather than being seen as beneficiaries or people to be safeguarded, they should be seen as full partners. Adaptive Collaborative Management is an approach which prioritises the rights and roles of communities alongside the need to address the environmental crisis. The volume presents detailed case studies and real-life examples from across the globe, promoting and prioritizing the voices of women and scholars and practitioners from the Global South who are often under-represented. Providing concrete examples of ways that a bottom-up approach can function to enhance development sustainably via its practitioners and far beyond the locale in which they initially worked, this volume demonstrates the lasting utility of approaches like Adaptive Collaborative Management that emphasize local control, inclusiveness and local creativity in management. This book will be of great interest to students, scholars and practitioners working in the fields of conservation, forest management, community development and natural resource management and development studies more broadly. Sunny and The Magical Forest Adventures Er. Nabal K Pande, 2023-09-22. In a world where reality intertwines with enchantment, where the ordinary and the extraordinary coexist, there lies a hidden realm known only to a chosen few. Among those fortunate enough to stumble upon its secrets is Sunny, a young and curious soul with a heart full of wonder. And so, dear reader, I invite you to step through the enchanted doorway and embark on a journey that will ignite your imagination and carry you into a realm of magic and possibility Meet Sunny a child whose laughter echoes through the sunlit meadows of her ordinary life She lives in a quaint cottage nestled on the outskirts of a bustling town Her days are a symphony of school play and the warm embrace of her family Yet within her a spark of curiosity flickers like an unquenchable flame

Payment schemes for forest ecosystem services in China J.F. Liang, 2023-09-04 Faced with intensified ecological crisis the Chinese government has sought policy interventions to reverse its forest degradation Among the policy instruments is the Payment for Ecosystem Services PES that aims to transform the pattern of traditional forest management and protection and to encourage forest sustainable use by financial incentive This book provides a policy evaluation on the payment schemes for forest ecosystem services in China It examines PES schemes with respect to ecological effectiveness economic and livelihood impacts participation of local people and the interlinkages with forest tenure reform The evaluation is based on different cases across China's main forested regions The implementation of payment schemes in China shows improvements in forest management and protection and an incentive based governance method is employed instead of command and control New forest use practices are also created to couple local livelihood requirements with ecological conservation In addition local farmers are more and more involved in the implementation of payment schemes Providing a comprehensive assessment of payment policies for ecosystem services in China this book will be of great interest to policy makers and government advisers in China international donor agencies and academics and students with an interest in PES and forest governance

The Use of Remote Sensing in the Modeling of Forest Productivity H.L. Gholz, Kaneyuki Nakane, H. Shimoda, 2012-12-06 Forests comprise the greatest storage of carbon on land provide fuel for millions are the habitat for most terrestrial biodiversity and are critical to the economies of many countries Yet changes in the extent and dynamics of forests are inherently difficult to detect and quantify Remote sensing technologies may facilitate the measurement of some key forest properties which when combined with other information contained in various computer models may allow for the quantification of critical forest functions This book explores how remote sensing and computer modeling can be combined to estimate changes in the carbon storage or productivity of forests from the level of the leaf to the level of the globe Land managers researchers policy makers and students will all find stimulating discussions among an international set of experts at the cutting edge of the interface between science technology and management

Sampling Methods, Remote Sensing and GIS Multiresource Forest Inventory Michael Köhl, Steen S. Magnussen, Marco Marchetti, 2006-10-19 When we talk about forests we talk about 30% of our planet's land surface area In 2000 there was an estimated 3 870 10 ha of forest worldwide of which 1 5% is in forest plantations and 95% in natural forests FAO 2003 Forests are not only a source for timber they also generate significant nonwood goods and services mitigate climate change conserve biological diversity provide protection from natural hazards and not least provide recreational areas for an increasingly urbanized world population The availability of timber and nonwood goods and services is waning as deforestation and degradation of tropical forests continue While forest area has stabilized or is slightly increasing in the boreal and temperate regions the annual loss of forest area in the tropics and subtropics is decreasing Between 1990 and 2000 the annual rate of deforestation was estimated to be 14.6 10 ha approximately 0.38% and took place mainly in tropical and subtropical forests FAO 2003 The net annual rate of change is about 9.4 10 ha 0.2% Maintaining and enhancing forest areas and the vitality of forest ecosystems is a widely accepted political goal which is often opposed by conflicting demands of various stakeholders Improving Forest Benefits for the Poor Bishnu Hari
