Realizing the Distinctive University Mark William Roche, 2017-02-28 In Realizing the Distinctive University Vision and Values Strategy and Culture Mark William Roche changes the terms of the debate about American higher education A former dean of the College of Arts and Letters at the University of Notre Dame Roche argues for the importance of an institutional vision not simply a brand and while he extols the value of entrepreneurship he defines it in contrast to the corporate drive toward commercialization and demands for business management models Using the history of the German university to assess the need for and implementation of distinctive visions at American colleges and universities Roche's own vision benefits from his deep connection to both systems as well as his experience in the trenches working to realize the special mission of an American Catholic university Roche makes a significant contribution by delineating means for moving such an institution from vision to implementation Roche provides a road map to creating a superb arts and sciences college within a major research university and offers a rich analysis of five principles that have shaped the modern American university flexibility competition incentives accountability and community He notes the challenges and problems that surface with these categories and includes ample illustration of both best practices and personal missteps The book makes clear that even a compelling intellectual vision must always be linked to its embodiment in rhetoric support structures and community Throughout this unique and appealing contribution to the literature on higher education Roche avoids polemic and remains optimistic about the ways in which a faculty member serving in administration can make a positive difference Realizing the Distinctive University is a must read for academic administrators faculty members interested in the inner workings of the university and graduate students and scholars of higher education Reflecting on the Future of Academic and Public Libraries Peter Hernon, Joseph R. Governing Higher Education: National Perspectives on Institutional Governance Alberto Amaral, Glen Jones, B. Karseth, 2013-11-11 Over the last decades higher education has gone through an unprecedented growth period and as a result the average university or college has now more students and a larger output than ever before At the same time the socio economic and political demands with respect to higher education have grown dramatically These developments have taken place without a proportional increase of the budgets and facilities of the higher education institutions This has created an imbalance between the expectations with respect to higher education and the institutional capacities in the sector One of the underlying trends is that the traditional pact between higher education and society has become problematic Society no longer accepts the rather special and protected position that universities have had for a very long time in our societies The knowledge based social and cultural missions of higher education institutions are no longer taken for granted as the main legitimacy bases for public investments in higher education Universities and colleges are at present expected to function efficiently to contribute to sustainable economic growth at various levels and to add to national and even supranational trade balances On top of this they have to prove that they maintain a high level of quality in their primary activities i e teaching research and services while adapting and responding to the expectations expressed so vehemently in their environments and to a decreasing per capita funding basis
