The Practice of Teachers Professional Development Helen Grimmer, 2014-07-11 This book uses Vygotsky's cultural historical theory to provide a unique theorisation of teachers professional development as a practice A practice can be described as the socially structured actions set up to produce a product or service aimed at meeting a collective human need In this case collaborative interventionist work with teachers in two different Australian primary schools sought to simultaneously identify understand and develop the necessary conditions for supporting the teachers development as professionals The in depth analysis of this practice provides interesting insight into professional development for teachers at all levels of schooling and provides strong support for educational researchers administrators and consultants to reconsider many existing forms of professional learning development programs This book supports the contemporary view that professional learning must take place with teachers rather than be delivered to teachers but provides an important expansion to current work in this area by arguing that a focus on teachers learning of new strategies and principles may still fall short of creating long term change in teachers professional practice By taking a cultural historical approach the focus moves to supporting teachers development of unified concepts the intertwining of theoretical and practical aspects and motives to continue their ongoing development as professionals This emphasis builds teachers capacity to examine and disrupt habitual practices and understand create and implement thoughtful and sustainable transformations in all areas of their professional life This book therefore builds upon the ongoing conversation about professional learning and development offering a new framework for researching understanding and developing this critical practice

Reconceptualising Reflection in Reflective Practice Misrah Mohamed, Radzuwan Ab Rashid, 2023-05-10. This edited volume presents a model that embraces four components of reflective practice: planning, acting, reflecting, and evaluating. The complexities of reflective practice are manifested through three aspects of reflection: problem solving, action orientedness, and critical reflection. To provide practical guidance, the audience is presented with various sets of experiences within the field of education which represent different foci and criticality of reflection. The experiences are described through different lenses from individual to groups of educators. The chapters provide a reconceptualisation of reflection which underpins an effective reflective practice. Therefore, readers are provided with information that demonstrates the different phases of reflection that make up an effective cycle of reflective practice. It is through the chapters that readers will be able to distinguish the different foci and levels of reflection, thus enabling them to engage in reflective practice more effectively. The Malaysian context that the book brings gives readers insights into a lesser known context and its people, culture, and educational system as a whole for comparison. The book is written with the needs of student teachers and teacher educators in mind. However, the model reconceptualised is transferable to other disciplines too.
