Crafting a Global Trade Strategy: the U.S. and the WTO , International Economic Law in the 21st Century Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann,2012-07-24 The state centred Westphalian model of international law has failed to protect human rights and other international public goods effectively Most international trade financial and environmental agreements do not even refer to human rights consumer welfare democratic citizen participation and transnational rule of law for the benefit of citizens This book argues that these multilevel governance failures are largely due to inadequate regulation of the collective action problems in the supply of international public goods such as inadequate legal judicial and democratic accountability of governments vis a vis citizens Rather than treating citizens as mere objects of intergovernmental economic and environmental regulation and leaving multilevel governance of international public goods to discretionary foreign policy human rights and constitutional democracy call for civilizing and constitutionalizing international economic and environmental cooperation by stronger legal and judicial protection of citizens and their constitutional rights in international economic law Moreover intergovernmental regulation of transnational cooperation among citizens must be justified by principles of justice and multilevel constitutional restraints protecting rights of citizens and their public reason The reality of constitutional pluralism requires respecting legitimately diverse conceptions of human rights and democratic constitutionalism The obvious failures in the governance of interrelated trading financial and environmental systems must be restrained by cosmopolitan constitutional conceptions of international law protecting the transnational rule of law and participatory democracy for the benefit of citizens

Constitutionalism, Multilevel Trade Governance and Social Regulation Christian Joerges,Ernst-Ulrich Petersmann,2006-10-19 This is a book about the ever more complex legal networks of transnational economic governance structures and their legitimacy problems It takes up the challenge of the editors earlier pioneering works which have called for more cross sectoral and interdisciplinary analyses by scholars of international law European and international economic law private international law international relations theory and social philosophy to examine the interdependences of multilevel governance in transnational economic social environmental and legal relations Two complementary strands of theorising are expounded One argues that globalisation and the universal recognition of human rights are transforming the intergovernmental society of states into a cosmopolitan community of citizens which requires more effective constitutional safeguards for protecting human rights and consumer welfare in the national and international governance and legal regulation of international trade The second emphasises the dependence of the functioning of international markets and liberal trade on governance arrangements which respond credibly to safety and environmental concerns of consumers traders political and non governmental actors Enquiries into the generation of international standards and empirical analyses of legalization and judicialisation practices form part of this agenda The perspectives and conclusions of the more than 20 contributors from Europe and North America cannot be uniform But they converge in their search for a constitutional architecture which limits empowers and legitimises multilevel trade governance as well as in their common premise that respect for human rights private and democratic self government and social justice require more transparent participatory and deliberative forms of transnational cosmopolitan democracy
