Regeneration Eye In The Door Ghost Road:

The Dictator's Dictation Robert Boyers, 2005-10-26 In these elegant essays many of them originally written for The New Republic and Harper's Robert Boyers examines the role of the political imagination in shaping the works of such important contemporary writers as W G Sebald and Philip Roth Nadine Gordimer and Mario Vargas Llosa Natalia Ginzburg and Pat Barker J M Coetzee and John Updike V S Naipaul and Anita Desai Occasionally he finds that politics actually figures very little in works that only pretend to be interested in politics Elsewhere he discovers that certain writers are not equal to the political issues they take on or that their work is fatally compromised by complacency or wishful thinking In the main though Boyers writes as a lover of great literature who wishes to understand how the best writers do justice to their own political obsessions without suggesting that everything is reducible to politics Resisting the notion that novels can be effectively translated into ideas or positions he resists as well the notion that art and politics must be held apart lest works of fiction somehow be contaminated by their association with real life or public issues The essays offer a combination of close reading argument and assessment What Boyers asks is the relationship between form and substance in a work whose formal properties are particularly striking Is it reasonable to think of a particular writer as reactionary merely because he presents an unflattering portrait of revolutionary activists or because he is less than optimistic about the future of newly independent societies What is the status of private life in works set in politically tumultuous times Can the novelist be responsible if he consistently refuses to engage the conditions that affect even the intimate lives of his characters Such questions inform these essays which strive to be true to the essential spirit of the works they discuss and to interrogate as sympathetically as possible the imagination of writers who negotiate the unstable relationships between society and the individual art and ideas

The Poetics of Transgenerational Trauma Meera Atkinson, 2017-07-27 The first decades of the twenty first century have been beset by troubling social realities coalition warfare global terrorism and financial crisis climate change epidemics of family violence violence toward women addiction neo colonialism continuing racial and religious conflict While traumas involving large scale or historical violence are widely represented in trauma theory familial trauma is still largely considered a private matter associated with personal failure This book contributes to the emerging field of feminist trauma theory by bringing focus to works that contest this tendency offering new understandings of the significance of the literary testimony and its relationship to broader society The Poetics of Transgenerational Trauma adopts an interdisciplinary approach in examining how the literary testimony of familial transgenerational trauma with its affective and relational contagion illuminates transmissive cycles of trauma that have consequences across cultures and generations It offers bold and insightful readings of works that explore those consequences in story Alison Bechdel's Fun Home A Family Tragicomic 2006 Hélène Cixous's Hyperdread 2009 Marguerite Duras's The Lover 1992 Pat Barker's Regeneration Trilogy 1999 and Alexis Wright's Carpentaria 2006 and The Swan Book 2013 concluding that such testimony constitutes a fundamentally feminist experiment and encounter The Poetics of Transgenerational Trauma challenges the casting of familial trauma in ahistorical terms and affirms both trauma and writing as social forces of political import Contemporary Novelists M.
