to use its technological pre eminence as a tool of soft power to steer Western European technological choices toward the peaceful uses of the atom and of space encouraging options that fostered collaboration promoted nonproliferation and defused challenges to U S technological superiority In Sharing Knowledge Shaping Europe John Krige describes these efforts and the varying degrees of success they achieved Krige explains that the pursuit of scientific and technological leadership galvanized by America s Cold War competition with the Soviet Union was also used for techno political collaboration with major allies He examines a series of multinational arrangements involving shared technological platforms and aimed at curbing nuclear proliferation and he describes the roles of the Department of State the Atomic Energy Commission and NASA To their dismay these agencies discovered that the use of technology as an instrument of soft power was seriously circumscribed by internal divisions within successive administrations and by external opposition from European countries It was successful Krige argues only when technological leadership was embedded in a web of supportive harder power structures

Halvorsen: Sharing Knowledge, Transforming Societi ,2023-01-10 In June 2016 the Norwegian Programme for Capacity Development in Higher Education and Research for Development Norhed hosted a conference on the theme of knowledge for development in an attempt to shift the focus of the programme towards its academic content This book follows up on that event The conference highlighted the usefulness of presenting the value of Norhed s different projects to the world showing how they improve knowledge and expand access to it through co operation A wish for more meta knowledge was also expressed and this gives rise to the following questions Is this way of co operating contributing to the growth of independent post colonial knowledge production in the South based on analyses of local data and experiences in ways that are relevant to our shared future Does the growth of academic independence as well as greater equality and the ability to develop theories different to those imposed by the better off parts of the world give rise to deeper understandings and better explanations Does it at least spread the ability to translate existing methodologies in ways that add meaning to observations of local context and data and thus enhance the relevance and influence of the academic profession locally and internationally This book in its varied contributions does not provide definite answers to these questions but it does show that Norhed is a step in the right direction Norhed is an attempt to fund collaboration within and between higher education institutions We know that both the uniqueness of this programme and ideas of how to better utilise the learning and experience emerging from it call for more elaboration and broader dissemination before we can offer further guidance on how to do things better This book is a first attempt

Power Sharing in a Divided Nation Johan Saravanamuttu,2016-09-30 This book argues that Malaysia s electoral politics have historically been premised on a hybridized model of communalism and consociationalism Beyond this it posits a newer idea of power sharing based on the dynamic and transformative practice of mediated communalism through six decades 1952 2016 of electoral politics The strategy of mediating communalism is critically explored throughout the book serving to test its saliency as a distinct approach to power sharing in a social formation which is ethnically religiously and regionally divided yet has remained remarkably and tenuously integrated throughout Malaysia's electoral history. The book delves into this question by narrating and theorizing the complexity of communal politics leading to the emergence of new politics which have attempted to put Malaysia on the track of further democratization. It is further implied that new politics has to work in tandem with mediated communalism to transcend the most deleterious effects of an ethnically divided society.

Sharing Lights on the Way to God Pim Valkenberg, 2006. This book seeks to give form to a theology that hyphenates two traditions that have not only been in constant conflict during most of their historical encounters but are also presented as opposite blocks in the threatening clash of civilizations at the beginning of the third millennium. Islam and Christianity. Based on experiences of dialogue between the three Abrahamic faiths, this book analyzes historical and contemporary processes of interreligious dialogue between Christians and Muslims in order to arrive at a concept of dialogue as mutual emulation. It shows how in their theologies of religious others, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam have based their images of others on their self-images. This characteristic makes traditional theologies of religion quite unsuitable for interreligious dialogue. Consequently, the author of this book develops a model in which comparative theology and interreligious dialogue are connected by studying as a Christian theologian the theological and spiritual sources of his Muslim partners. These exercises in comparative Muslim-Christian theology comprise both the medieval Aquinas, al-Ghazali, Rumi, and the modern periods Said Nursi, Fethullah Gulen, Tariq Ramadan. An interlude on Teresa of Avila's poem Nada te turbe shows how Christians may recover important insights from their own tradition by reading these Muslim theological and spiritual sources.
