Reclaiming Our Democracy Healing The Break Between People And Government:

Reclaiming Our Democracy Sam Daley-Harris, 2013 Most people see working to end global poverty and ensure a stable climate as a fool's errand. Add to that the Citizens United decision and the flood of money rushing into politics and the despair grows deeper. But activist and author Sam Daley Harris has helped thousands of ordinary citizens transform from hopeless bystanders to powerful advocates. This 20th anniversary edition has a new chapter on the groundbreaking work of Citizens Climate Lobby, an increasingly powerful new advocacy group following the RESULTS model, and another new chapter on the Center for Citizen Empowerment and Transformation, a new initiative focused on spreading the original concepts developed by RESULTS.

We Are Not Able to Live in the Sky Mara Kardas-Nelson, 2014 Shortlisted for the J. Anthony Lukas Prize. A deeply reported work of journalism that explores the promises and perils of microfinance told through the eyes of international lenders and women borrowers in West Africa. In the mid 1970s, Muhammad Yunus, an American-trained Bangladeshi economist, met a poor female stool maker who needed money to expand her business. In an act widely known as the beginning of microfinance, Yunus lent 27 to forty-two women, hoping small credit would help the women pull themselves out of poverty. Soon, Yunus's Grameen Bank was born, and the idea of giving very small, high-interest loans to poor people took off. In 2006, Yunus and the Grameen Bank won the Nobel Peace Prize for efforts to create economic and social development from below. But there's a problem with this story: There are mounting concerns that these small loans are as likely to bury poor people in debt as they are to pull them from poverty, with borrowers from India to Kenya facing consequences such as jail time and forced land sales. Reportedly, hundreds have even committed suicide. What happened? Did microfinance take a wrong turn, or was it flawed from the beginning? Mara Kardas Nelson's We Are Not Able to Live in the Sky is about unintended consequences, blind optimism, and the decades-long ramifications of seemingly small policy choices. The book is rooted in the stories of women borrowers in Sierra Leone, West Africa. Their narratives, woven through a deep history of modern international development, are set against the rise of Yunus's vision that tiny loans would put poverty in museums. Kardas Nelson asks: What is missed with a single financially focused solution to global inequity that ignores the real drivers of poverty? Who stands to benefit, and more important, who gets left behind?

Democracy's Education Harry C. Boyte, 2021-04-30 Today, Americans feel powerless in the face of problems on every front. Such feelings are acute in higher education, where educators are experiencing an avalanche of changes: cost-cutting, new technologies, and demands that higher education be narrowly geared to the needs of today's workplace. College graduates face mounting debt and uncertain job prospects and worry about a coarsening of the mass culture and the erosion of authentic human relationships. Higher education is increasingly seen and often portrays itself as a ticket to individual success, a private good, not a public one. Democracy's Education grows from the American Commonwealth Partnership, a year-long project to revitalize the democratic narrative of higher education that began with an invitation to Harry Boyte from the White House to put together a coalition.

aimed at strengthening higher education as a public good The project was launched at the beginning of 2012 to mark the 150th anniversary of the Morrill Act which created land grant colleges Beginning with an essay by Harry C Boyte Reinventing Citizenship as Public Work which challenges educators and their partners to claim their power to shape the story of higher education and the civic careers of students the collection brings world famous scholars senior government officials and university presidents together with faculty students staff community organizers and intellectuals from across the United States and South Africa and Japan Contributors describe many constructive responses to change already taking place in different kinds of institutions and present cutting edge ideas like civic science civic studies citizen professionalism and citizen alumni Authors detail practical approaches to making change from new faculty and student roles to changes in curriculum and student life and strategies for everyday citizen empowerment Overall the work develops a democratic story of education urgently needed to address today s challenges from climate change to growing inequality Capitalist

Humanitarianism Lucia Hulsether,2023-01-04 The struggle against neoliberal order has gained momentum over the last five decades to the point that economic elites have not only adapted to the Left s critiques but incorporated them for capitalist expansion Venture funds expose their ties to slavery and pledge to invest in racial equity Banks pitch microloans as a path to indigenous self determination Fair trade brands narrate consumption as an act of feminist solidarity with women artisans in the global South In Capitalist Humanitarianism Lucia Hulsether examines these projects and the contexts of their emergence Blending historical and ethnographic styles and traversing intimate and global scales Hulsether tracks how neoliberal self critique creates new institutional hegemonies that in turn reproduce racial and neocolonial dispossession From the archives of Christian fair traders to luxury social entrepreneurship conferences from US finance offices to Guatemalan towns flooded with their loan products from service economy desperation to the internal contradictions of social movements Hulsether argues that capitalist humanitarian projects are fueled as much by a profit motive as by a hope that racial capitalism can redeem the losses that accumulate in its wake Reclaiming Our Democracy Sam Harris,1994
