Historic preservation whether of landscapes or buildings was an important development of the nineteenth century in many countries. There is however surprisingly little understanding about how it took place and research into it is narrowly focused. For example, generally landscape preservation from this time is examined separately from buildings preservation, which is seen in terms of national narratives or considered within the contexts of area studies and it is usually seen from a specific disciplinary perspective. All of these later categorizations did not apply at the time and consequently a very partial view is achieved. In order to begin unlocking a very complex phenomenon that has helped to define our own age, this dynamic collection of essays brings together an international and transdisciplinary line up of academics and practitioners to reconsider preservation's origins in the second half of the nineteenth and early part of the twentieth century. With a focus on Britain and the British Empire and including case studies from the United States, Canada, Sweden, France, Germany, Sri Lanka, The Holy Land and Turkey, this book places preservation in imperial, international and national contexts, demonstrating that there was far more interaction between different countries in this arena than may be supposed and revealing remarkable but hitherto hidden overlaps and intersections. It examines three main themes: the influence of religion, the political and sub-diplomatic aspects of preservation and the professionalization of preservation practice. Internationalizing trends already existed through the churches, the universities and the diplomatic services as well as familial ties that had an important impact on preservation's epistemic communities and its targets. Other internationalizing factors include an interest in national histories and the histories of architecture and art, particularly when known through illustration, a growing interest in biography, especially of founding fathers or famous literary figures and tourism. Although the focus is on architectural preservation, this book demonstrates that in this formative period the preservation of buildings and landscapes needs to be considered together as it often was at the time and in context. The conclusion reached is that the preservation movement has to be understood in imperial and international contexts rather than in simply national or regional ones.

The Victorian Church Chris Brooks, Andrew Saint, 1995. This is a reassessment of the phenomenon of church architecture in the 19th century. It presents a range of interpretations that approach Victorian churches as products of institutional needs, socio-cultural developments and economic forces The Collected Letters of William Morris, Volume IV William Morris, 2014-07-14 These volumes bring to a close the only comprehensive edition of the surviving correspondence of William Morris 1834-1896 a protean figure who exerted a major influence as poet craftsman master printer and designer Volumes III and IV taken together give in detail the comments and observations that articulate his problematic political and artistic stands and equally problematic position within the aesthetic movement as it developed in the 1890s Most eloquently voiced also are the complexities of his troubled marriage and his devotion to his epileptic daughter Jenny and his other daughter May But dominating all these themes organizing and structuring them are the Kelmscott Press and the building of Morris's important library of medieval manuscripts and early printed books The letters record the way in which the Press becomes not only the center of Morris's aesthetic ambitions and achievements but also the site for his closest human relations and for much of his connecting with the makers of early modernism The letters in Volumes III and IV are thoroughly annotated and through texts and notes provide a new assessment of Morris's career Included also as appendices to Volume IV are two important documents the first never before published is F S Ellis's Valuation List of Morris's library made after Morris's death and the second never before reprinted is the text of what was to be Morris's final essay on socialism published in April 1896 Originally published in 1996 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
