Reconstituting The Market:

Reconstituting the Market Paul Hare, Judy Batt, 2005-08-12 Reconstituting the Market details many transition economies some already well known others enjoying very little attention from researchers and a range of important issues to do with state building and its links with microeconomic transformation The book was based on the authors view that transition in the new states would be fundamentally more difficult than in more established states a view which turned out to be incorrect since in all the transition countries the former communist state had to be largely rebuilt as part of the complex process of constructing a market economy Aspects of this process focusing on competition policy privatization and the regulation of public utilities are examined in respect to Central Europe the Baltics Russia Ukraine and Moldova The result is essential reading for anyone seeking an up to date account of key transition issues covering both familiar and unfamiliar countries

Reconstituting the Curriculum M. R. Islam, Gary M. Zatzman, Jaan S. Islam, 2013-11-13 Based on groundbreaking new ideas this treatise signals a return to a rebuilding and reshaping of the curriculum as the primary tool for education This book presents a new definition of curriculum and what it should consist of with a view toward creating a more ethical educated and thinking person Rather than treating students as products for society this approach returns to a view of the curriculum as a tool for educating students to reason through problems be bold in creating new solutions and contribute to a more vibrant just world The university curriculum introduced in the post Renaissance era dominated by doctrinal philosophy is based on learning or skill development suitable for creating a learned society that would eventually serve the establishment This curriculum has been promoted as the only form suitable for the modern education system It has introduced a tremendous amount of tangible advancement in all fields of the structured education system These tangible gains are often promoted as knowledge This has created confusion between education acquiring knowledge and learning training or skill development This book seeks to clarify the difference between these two divergent views of education It has been shown that the current curriculum is not conducive to increasing a student s knowledge because it is based on consolidating preconceived ideas that have been either passed on from previous generations or gained through personal experience In most cases this mode of cognition will not create a pathway for gaining knowledge that brings one closer to discovery The term education on the other hand is always meant to be a process of bringing forth one s inherent qualities and unique traits necessary and sufficient for increasing one s knowledge

Reconstituting Korean Security Hazel Smith, 2007 The classic national security concerns of nuclear proliferation and the production sale and use of weapons of mass destruction cannot be addressed in the Korean peninsula without at the same time considering the implications and interrelationship of what are these days known as the human security issues of food poverty and perhaps more controversially freedom We agree that East Asia and the world are more dangerous with the Democratic People's Republic of Korea the DPRK or North Korea in possession of nuclear weapons It is also argued however that a comprehensive security analysis identifies many equally significant threats to regional security such as the risk from industrial and nuclear accidents and the potential for transborder crime arising from the lack of legal and productive avenues for economic activity for North Korea's poverty stricken citizens In this book Korea's soft security issues are as important as hard security matters and that the latter cannot be understood or its dilemmas unravelled without a clear engagement with the former This book looks at Korean security dilemmas from the perspective of the various international actors not just from the viewpoint of the major protagonists the DPRK and the United States We show that different states and international organizations have different and multiple interests in their relationships with the DPRK and with each other
