Reflections On Development In Southeast Asia:

Reflections on Development in Southeast Asia Teck Ghee Lim, 1988 The rapid pace of economic development in Southeast Asia has involved a changing and often volatile relationship between traditional structures and values and new structures associated with state and administrative power In this volume a variety of original perspectives is offered on crucial subjects including region the bureaucracy the state and non governmental organizations Critical Reflections on Development D. Kingsbury, 2013-03-05 Designed as a critique of the key failures of international development this book brings together practitioners policy makers researchers activists and academics in an attempt to work toward a shared conceptualisation of development by outlining and critically reflecting on their own understanding of development An Analysis of Mahbub ul Haq's Reflections on Human Development Riley Quinn, 2017-07-05 What is the ultimate goal of any human society There have been many answers to this question But by producing a series of notably well structured arguments economist Mahbub ul Haq s Reflections on Human Development persuaded readers that the goal should be defined quite simply as the requirement that each society improve the lives of its citizens If this is the agreed aim Haq continues then economic development should be designed to support human development His well structured reasoning helped development economists recalibrate much of what had previously been regarded as self evident that economic productivity was the main barometer of social well being The work had a profound effect and Haq s thinking helped produce a new understanding of what development actually meant Haq conscientiously mapped out arguments and counter arguments to persuade readers that development did not simply mean an increase in productivity but rather an increase in human development the capability of people to live the lives they want to By bringing the abstract back to the concrete Haq reevaluated the neoliberal reasoning that suggested economic development necessarily benefitted everybody And by virtue of his strong command of reasoning Haq showed how economic development provided no guarantees that rich people would spend money on improving health education or other human development outcomes for the poor Reflections on Human Development Mahbub ul Haq, 1995 Group of Seven Cambridge Handbook of Environmental Justice and Sustainable Development Sumudu A. Atapattu, Carmen G. Gonzalez, Sara L. Seck, 2021-04-01 Despite the global endorsement of the Sustainable Development Goals environmental justice struggles are growing all over the world. These struggles are not isolated injustices but symptoms of interlocking forms of oppression that privilege the few while inflicting misery on the many and threatening ecological collapse. This handbook offers critical perspectives on the multi dimensional intersectional nature of environmental injustice and the cross cutting forms of oppression that unite and divide these struggles including gender race poverty and indigeneity. The work sheds new light on the often neglected social dimension of sustainability and its relationship to human rights and environmental justice. Using a variety of legal frameworks and case studies from around the world this volume illustrates the importance of overcoming the fragmentation of these legal frameworks and social movements in order to develop holistic solutions that promote justice and protect the planet's ecosystems at a time of intensifying economic and ecological crisis.
