Out of My Mind W. J. de Kock, 2014-03-25 We need a whole new mind to thrive in the twenty first century says Daniel Pink As theologians we cannot escape the transition from the information age to the conceptual age of the twenty first century In the information age the theologian could give answers based on the best information but in the twenty first century information is on hand Empathy and understanding however are in scant supply today In the information age there was no room for doubt certainty was the hallmark of a successful information worker But today uncertainty is a certainty thanks to globalization the information revolution and even quantum mechanics Uncertainty has been grafted into our collective consciousness It therefore cannot be theological business as usual It cannot be about giving answers it is more about finding the best questions to be answered It cannot be about winning theological arguments it is more about living in God's regenerative story while we find ourselves in the liminal space of uncertainty It cannot be about holding strong opinions it is more about creating space for life to allow God's generosity to flow through us Out of My Mind tells the story of such a transition Hypertext 3.0 George P.

are never firmly rooted in the first place and in Beckett the unsettled origin is felt most keenly when it is abandoned for exile. These writers demonstrate the displacement felt by many Irish citizens in an ever changing homeland unsteadied by long and turbulent decolonization. Searching for a sense of place between national and global abstractions their work displays a twofold struggle to pinpoint national identity while adapting to a fluid cosmopolitan world.

The Fiction of Bharati Mukherjee Nagendra Kumar, 2001. Bharati Mukherjee is one of the major novelists of Indian diaspora who have achieved enviable positions within a comparatively short creative span as an expatriate in the United States. She has captured evocatively the Indian immigrant experience in her five novels and two collections of short fiction. The creative odyssey that started with The Tiger's Daughter (1972) and produced Leave It to Me (1997) recently has kept her seriously involved in exploring the complexities of cross cultural interactions. The present volume is the first full length study of Mukherjee's creative corpus from a cross cultural perspective. The book is divided into six chapters. It opens with an exhaustive account of the major concepts of culture and it ingeniously traces the nature of formative influences on her psyche. In the second chapter, Mukherjee's fiction has been examined in three well marked phases: expatriation, transition, immigration. In three substantive chapters, the quality of cultural conflict in all its multiplicity forms the crux of her accomplishments as a creative artist. She has an esteemed place in the luminous galaxy of Indian men of letters writing abroad with native ethos providing them a
