(eds), 2017. The chapters in the book reflect some of the breadth of industrial development and its effects that took place in and around Sheffield, South Yorkshire from the eighteenth century onwards. It looks at great landowners and at ordinary townfolk and the impacts that industrial development had on them and their environment. Containing chapters by Professors Ian Rotherham, David Hey and Melvyn Jones and Dr Leonie Skelton. The Victorian Music Hall Dagmar Kift, 1996-10-24. With the exception of the occasional local case study, music hall history has until now been presented as the history of the London halls. This book attempts to redress the balance by setting music hall history within a national perspective. Kift also sheds a new light on the roles of managements, performers, and audiences. For example, the author confutes the commonly held assumption that most women in the halls were prostitutes and shows them to have been working women accompanied by workmates of both sexes or by their families. She argues that before the 1890s the halls catered predominantly to working-class and lower middle-class audiences of men and women of all ages and were instrumental in giving them a strong and self-confident identity. The hall's ability to sustain a distinct class awareness was one of their greatest strengths, but this factor was also at the root of many of the controversies which surrounded them. These controversies are at the centre of the book, and Kift treats them as test cases for social relations which provide fresh insights into nineteenth-century British society and politics. Guide to Reference Material: Social & historical sciences, philosophy & religion Albert John

Geography and Planning T. W. Freeman,2025-06-01 Originally published in 1958 as a third edition in 1967 and revised fourth edition in 1974 this established text discusses the challenges of physical and regional geography to planners and studies the relationship between geography economics and change in both urban and rural settings It reflects the increasing concern in the late 20th Century with the environment and quality of life The author argues strongly that there must be three related orders of planning national regional and local because the building of a better Britain depends on work done in detail at street and field level with the geographical basis of planning being clear in such work At a time when the UK government is considering an overhaul of the planning system in order to meet house building targets and climate change is having a real impact on land use many of the issues raised in this book are as relevant now as they were when it was first published vehicles stand as cultural material forms that supply poets with words particularly words that congeal into patterns of language allowing the creation of a poetic discourse As readers of these poets apply techniques and theories of discourse analysis they reveal how poets borrow lift hijack or resituate words from one or more different genres to use as tools of political change Leonard engages with the critical toolboxes of content analysis semiosis and deconstruction to demonstrate how to critically investigate and interrogate the images sounds and words not just of politically engaged poets but also of any disseminator of culture and news Moving beyond theory into praxis this book becomes a model of its own transgressive premise by thinking analyzing writing and teaching against the grain Its focus on language as unbounded discourse makes this book a relevant and insightful demonstration in democratic pedagogy and in teaching for transformation     the cambridge economic history of europe Edwin Ernest Rich,1967
