Regional Acidification Models Juha Kämäri, David F. Brakke, Alan Jenkins, Stephen A. Norton, Richard F. Wright, 2012-12-06 In order to provide meaningful information for evaluating environmental consequences of alternative control strategies of air pollutant emissions scientists have recently initiated numerous studies aiming at collecting and making use of regional data New kinds of mathematical models have been developed that no longer are calibrated just for individual stands or catchments but can be applied on a large regional scale Such regional models and data were reviewed at a meeting Models to describe the geographic extent and time evolution of acidification and air pollution damage organized by the Finnish Research Project on Acidification HAPRO and held in Aulanko Hiimeenlinna Finland July 5 8 1988 This volume is based on the outcome of that meeting The chapters of the volume are written by leading scientists in the field The main objective of this volume is to discuss the potential of regional models to analyze the geographic extent of acidification as well as the environmental damage and the time evolution of the responses of the environment First in Part I of the volume sensitivity distributions of ecosystems forest soils and surface waters are described The focus of interest is therefore extended from the most sensitive ecosystems to sensitive and moderately sensitive parts of the environment When formulating national and international targets it is of crucial importance to know the whole distribution of critical loads within the area and not only the level the most sensitive ecosystem can tolerate Acidification Research in the Netherlands T. Schneider, G.J. Heij, 1991-08-21 This book contains the results and conclusions of extensive research on the causes and effects of acidification of forests forest soils and heathland in the Netherlands In 1985 the Dutch Priority Programme on Acidification was started in order to give a more concrete form to the increasing interest of policy makers in the effects of air pollution on ecosystems in particular In the last three years the research has focused on obtaining a more accurate estimate of the emission of ammonia on the deposition of SO_x NO_y and NH_x and also on quantifying effects on forest and heathland ecosystems This quantification of effects included experimental work model analyses and derivation of critical loads and levels for forest and heathland ecosystems Furthermore scenario analyses were made with the Dutch Acidification Systems Model DAS in order to evaluate the effectiveness of policy measures The research itself which formed the basis for this book has been described in the reports on individual projects A summary of the scientific results and conclusions is given in thematic reports added as annex An independent Review Team has provided a critical assessment of the research carried out since 1988 The Review Report has been incorporated as annex Nordic Workshop on Integrated Energy and Environmental Modelling Gordon A. Mackenzie, 1990 Screening Procedure to Evaluate Effects of Air Pollution on Eastern Region Wildernesses Cited as Class I Air Quality Areas Mary Beth Adams, 1991 General Technical Report NE, 1980 User's Guide for the Northeast Stand Exam Program (NEST Version 2.1) Thomas M. Handbook of Atmospheric Science C. Nick Hewitt, Andrea V. Jackson, 2008-04-15 The alarming consequences of global climate change have highlighted the need to take urgent steps to combat the causes of air pollution Hence understanding the Earth's atmosphere is a vital component in Man's emerging quest for developing sustainable modes of behaviour in the 21st century Written by a team of expert scientists the Handbook of Atmospheric Science provides a broad and up to date account of our understanding of the natural processes that occur within the atmosphere It examines how Man's activities have had a detrimental effect on the climate and how measures may be implemented in order to modify these activities The book progresses through chapters covering the principles of atmospheric science and the current problems of air pollution at the urban regional and global scales to the tools and applications used to understand air pollution The Handbook of Atmospheric Science offers an excellent overview of this multi disciplinary subject and will prove invaluable to both students and researchers of atmospheric science air pollution and global change

The Impact of Nitrogen Deposition on Natural and Semi-Natural Ecosystems S.J. Langan, 2014-11-14 This book provides an up to date synthesis of the understanding of the interaction between the emission of nitrogen its deposition and impact on the most important components of natural and semi natural ecosystems The work consists of contributions from internationally renowned research scientists Individual chapters deal with the factors and processes related to nitrogen deposition and soils non forest vegetation communities forest ecosystems and surface waters The assessment of these impacts is discussed in terms of setting critical loads The book is aimed at researchers advanced course students and policy makers advisors involved with aspects of the impact of air pollution

The Added Value of Geographical Information Systems in Public and Environmental Health M.J. de Lepper, Henk J. Scholten, Richard M. Stern, 2007-07-27 Health for all by the year 2000 is the blueprint for change agreed to by the Member States of the World Health Organization In Europe this blueprint is built on 38 regional targets many of which have the underlying aim of uncovering new knowledge and of using existing knowledge more effectively The targets related to a healthy environment have the ultimate goals of safeguarding human health against environmental hazards and of enhancing the quality of life by providing clean and safe water air food and working and living conditions Allied to these goals is the need to reduce the sense of jeopardy that many people feel about what they perceive as the risks of everyday life These goals are an integral part of the European Charter on Environment and Health adopted by 29 European Member States and the Commission of the European Communities in December 1989 The Charter stresses the shared responsibility of everyone to protect the environment to be given adequate and accurate information and to be involved in decision making It outlines the principles for public policy as well as what needs to be done to transform them into action In this strong information systems have a vital role to play by helping to monitor the effectiveness of measures taken of trends analysed of priorities set and of decisions made
