Controversy and Challenge Herman Westerink, 2009

In this study the engagement of scholars in theology and religious studies with Freudian psychoanalysis is examined. The book focuses on the explicit or implicit theological ideas and aims that have determined its reception. The analysis includes a review of Freud's theories as suggestions for reconfigurations of psychoanalysis are made in order to further theorize on concepts or fields of attention that are important in theology and religious studies. The aim of this double critical review is to establish what the theoretical potential of Freud's psychoanalysis might be.

Aspects in Contexts, 2021-07-26 Psychology of religion has been enjoying considerable attention of late the number of publications and people involved in the field is rapidly increasing. It is however one of the oldest branches within psychology in general and one of the few in which an interdisciplinary approach has been kept alive and fostered. The fate of the field has been quite varied in the countries where psychology of religion has been initiated and developed during the 20th century. In this volume some aspects of this international history are examined. Coming from six different Western countries each of the contributors has a record in the historiography of psychology and profound knowledge of psychology of religion. Their approaches combine elements from the history of mentalities, the social history of science and biographical studies. The volume contains in depth treatments of such topics as the growth of the field as reflected in university politics, developments within international organizations and the personal involvement of contributors to the field. A wealth of information is provided on the background of the work of well known psychologists of religion like James Henry Leuba, Oskar Pfister, Gordon Allport, Werner Gruen, Antoine Vergote and others.

Research in the Social Scientific Study of Religion, Volume 20 Ralph L. Piedmont, Andrew Village, 2009-05-06 Research in the Social Scientific Study of Religion publishes empirical and theoretical studies of religion from a wide range of disciplines and from all parts of the globe. This volume has a special section on Islam and Mental Health, an important and neglected area of study. The section draws on work from six countries that have applied different theoretical frameworks and empirical methods to examine the link between religion, psychology and health in very diverse Muslim communities. Other articles examine topics as diverse as spirituality, psychological health, conversion and the cultural psychology of religion. Disciplines represented include those that draw on qualitative, quantitative and theoretical methods of study which together represent an important contribution to the contemporary study of religion.

Modern Societies & the Science of Religions Gerard Wiegers, 2018-11-13 This book brings together studies by seventeen specialists in the science of religions in which they relate the changes in their discipline to the changes which have occurred in a select number of modernising societies worldwide. It attempts to study these developments in their relation to and as conditioned and constrained by cultural change, changes in educational systems, technology, population, for example, migration, economic patterns, politics and last but not least religious systems. The essays focus on resp. France, Germany, the Netherlands, Spain, the USA, Turkey, Israel, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, Indonesia, Japan and China. Written in honour of Dr Lammert Leertouwer, professor of History of Religions and the Comparative Study of Religions at Leiden University from 1979 until his
