Alkiviadis Ginalis,2025-01-23 A comprehensive study of Aegean harbours and maritime connectivity focusing on both major and local infrastructures It provides a framework for interpreting coastal facilities and examines the Byzantine East s port networks Thessaly serves as a case study with diverse maritime landscapes and activities from Late Antiquity to the Middle Ages Tijdschrift voor zeegegeschiedenis ,2003 Mare Nostrum Gabriel de Donato,2003 Encyclopaedia of

Underwater and Maritime Archaeology James P. Delgado,1997 The theory and practice of underwater archaeology includes nearly every archaeological discipline from prehistoric archaeology to the modern era Encyclopedia of

Underwater and Maritime Archaeology James P. Delgado,1998 The Encyclopedia of Underwater and Maritime

Archaeology is the first comprehensive reference book on the discovery and recovery of the submerged past Written by archaeologists and other scientists who have made the discoveries the encyclopedia s entries describe sites around the world and across time prehistoric American Indian settlements submerged Bronze and Iron Age settlements sunken Phoenician Greek and Roman cities and harbors Viking ship burials ancient warships and merchant craft in the Mediterranean warships sunk during atomic bomb tests and much more Detailed entries also cover new fields of research in underwater and maritime archaeology the techniques and tools used by underwater archaeologists critical issues and the relevant legislation that has been passed and important institutions and individuals Overview articles examine work in broader regional national and scientific contexts Roman Seas Justin Leidwanger,2020-03-11 That seafaring was fundamental to Roman prosperity in the eastern Mediterranean is beyond doubt but a tendency by scholars to focus on the grandest long distance movements between major cities has obscured the finer and varied contours of maritime interaction This book offers a nuanced archaeological analysis of maritime economy and connectivity in the Roman east Drawing together maritime landscape studies and network analysis Roman Seas takes a bottom up view of the diverse socioeconomic conditions and seafaring logistics that generated multiple structures and scales of interaction The material record of shipwrecks and ports along a vital corridor from the southeast Aegean across the northeast Mediterranean provides a case study of regional exchange and communication based on routine sails between simple coastal harbors Rather than a single well integrated and persistent Mediterranean network multiple discrete and evolving regional and interregional systems emerge This analysis sheds light on the cadence of economic life along the coast the development of market institutions and the regional continuities that underpinned integration despite imperial fragmentation between the second century BCE and the seventh century CE Roman Seas advances a new approach to the synthesis of shipwreck and other maritime archaeological and historical economic data as well as a path through the stark dichotomies either big commercial voyages or small scale cabotage that inform most paradigms of Roman connectivity and trade The result is a unique perspective on ancient Mediterranean trade seafaring cultural interaction and coastal life Barbarian Seas Sean A. Kingsley, 2004 During the last ten years the discovery of shipwrecks as far afield as Italy Sardinia the sea of Marmara the Black Sea Israel and Eritrea have transformed our picture of the maritime history of Late Antiquity This volume shows the excavations of dozens of shipwrecks bringing ships and their cargoes to life
