Race Davison M. Douglas,2012-01-01 Using Charlotte North Carolina as a case study of the dynamics of racial change in the moderate South Davison Douglas analyzes the desegregation of the city s public schools from the Supreme Court s 1954 Brown v Board of Education decision through the early 1970s when the city embarked upon the most ambitious school busing plan in the nation In charting the path of racial change Douglas considers the relative efficacy of the black community s use of public demonstrations and litigation to force desegregation He also evaluates the role of the city s white business community which was concerned with preserving Charlotte s image as a racially moderate city in facilitating racial gains Charlotte s white leadership anxious to avoid economically damaging racial conflict engaged in early but decidedly token integration in the late 1950s and early 1960s in response to the black community s public protest and litigation efforts The insistence in the late 1960s on widespread busing however posed integration demands of an entirely different magnitude As Douglas shows the city s white leaders initially resisted the call for busing but eventually relented because they recognized the importance of a stable school system to the city s continued prosperity Technical Report Human Resources
