Macroeconomics of HIV/AIDS Mr. Markus Haacker, 2004-11-19 This paper analyzes the macroeconomics of HIV AIDS The paper highlights that the mortality and morbidity associated with AIDS make it unlike most other types of sickness and disease The paper describes the most common approaches used in accounting for growth in the context of an HIV AIDS epidemic The impact of HIV AIDS on education and the accumulation of human capital is discussed The paper also discusses the impact of HIV AIDS on the public sector and elaborates certain demographic events specific to the HIV AIDS pandemic

HIV/AIDS and human development in sub-Saharan Africa Tanja R. Müller, 2023-08-28 This third part of the AWLAE series on HIV AIDS and agriculture in sub Saharan Africa focuses on the epidemic as a challenge to human development in general and rural development in particular In the face of the impact of the epidemic as described in parts one and two of the series the agricultural sector can play an important role in mitigating some of its effects Strategies for agricultural intervention are of particular importance in sub Saharan Africa given the fact that most of the countries hardest hit by the epidemic are heavily reliant on agriculture Different agricultural sector based mitigation strategies are discussed It is further argued however that such interventions need to be complemented by interventions from the health and other sectors in particular by treatment regimes including access to anti retroviral drugs The text is followed by an annotated bibliography Public Health Aspects of HIV/AIDS in Low and Middle Income Countries David Celentano, Chris Beyrer, 2008-09-11 It has now been 25 years since the apocryphal report in the CDC Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report dated June 5 1981 entitled Pneumocystis Pneumonia Los Angeles which announced what was to become HIV AIDS HIV has now affected virtually all countries that have looked for it and has had a devastating impact on the public health and medical care infrastructure around the world HIV AIDS has also disproportionately affected nations with the least capacity to confront it especially the developing world nations in Sub Saharan Africa South and Southeast Asia and the emerging republics of Eastern and Central Asia The pandemic unlike any other disease of our time has had profound impacts on the practice of public health itself bringing affected communities into decision making demanding North South partnerships and collaborations and changing the basic conduct of clinical and prevention trials research While much has been written in scholarly publications for medical epidemiologic and disease control specialists there is no comprehensive review of the public health impact and response to HIV AIDS in the developing world This edited volume seeks to systematically describe the emergence and form of the epidemics epidemiology the social community and political response and the various measures to confront and control the epidemic with varying levels of success Of particular importance are strategies that appear to have been useful in ameliorating the epidemic while contrasting the situation in a neighboring country or region where contrasting prevention or care initiatives have had a deleterious outcome Common to all responses has been the international multi sectoral response represented by the Global Fund for HIV AIDS Malaria and Tuberculosis the President s Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief and the Gates Foundation among others to promote HIV pharmacologic therapy in resource poor settings The chapter authors will explore the political challenges in meeting HIV AIDS prevention and care in concert with the public health realities in specific country and regional context

The Political Economy of AIDS in Africa Nana K. Poku, 2017-07-05 Sub Saharan Africa is a region devastated by HIV AIDS The extent of the epidemic is only now becoming clear as increasing numbers of people with HIV are becoming ill In the absence of massively expanded prevention treatment and care efforts the AIDS death toll on the continent is set to escalate rapidly Despite progress being achieved in localized settings the alarming statistics reflect the continuing failure of advanced countries to mount a response that matches the scale and severity of the African HIV AIDS crisis Over and above the colossal personal suffering the dire social and economic consequences for fragile nation states are already being felt not only in health but in education industry agriculture transport human resources and economies in general Countries already crippled by drought poverty debt forced migration and civil war must now contend with massive deterioration in child survival rates and life expectancy the erosion of the economic family base massive and insupportable demands on health and public services chronic labour shortages and volatile national security Through a critical and detailed exploration of specific case studies this invaluable volume brings together an unparalleled array of international contributors to redefine the political and economic contours of this calamitous epidemic It examines the impact of the shortfalls in the Global Fund allocation the slow pace of administrative processing of aid and the weaknesses of institutional responses to the crisis from African countries and their partners in the global health community It is essential reading for all concerned with public health epidemiology HIV AIDS research globalization development Africa and indeed our shared future Features include Unique assessments of HIV AIDS and its impact on democracy and governance in African states Wide ranging regional and country studies by the foremost thinkers in their fields Multi disciplinary contributions from areas including Politics Sociology Public Health and Development Studies Compelling and convincing evidence thematic in approach Innovative and culturally specific insights for long term planning care and support HIV/AIDS, Poverty and Pastoral Care and Counselling Vhumani Magezi,2007-12-01 This publication carefully describes the HIV AIDS pandemic and how it is understood in some African contexts which hampers prevention initiatives It also delineates the complex nature of the poverty and HIV AIDS interplay To address the situation a family systems practical ecclesiological theology and approach to HIV AIDS ministry and a pastoral counselling approach that derives from and is sensitive to the African context are proposed

Changing the Course of AIDS David Dickinson,2011-01-15 Changing the Course of AIDS is an in depth evaluation of a new and exciting way to create the kind of much needed behavioral change that could affect the course of the global health crisis of HIV AIDS This case study from the South African HIV AIDS epidemic demonstrates that regular workers serving as peer educators can be as or even more effective agents of behavioral change than experts who lecture about the facts and so called appropriate health care behavior After spending six years researching the response of large South African companies to the epidemic that is decimating their workforce as well as South African communities David Dickinson describes the promise of this grassroots intervention workers educating one another in the workplace and community and the limitations of traditional top down strategies Dickinson s book takes us right into the South African workplace to show how effective and yet enormously complex peer education really is We see what it means when workers directly tackle the kinds of sexual gender religious ethnic and broader social and political taboos that make behavior change so difficult particularly when that behavior involves sex and sexuality Dickinson s findings show that people who are not officially health care experts or even health care workers can be skilled and effective educators In this book we see why peer education has so much to offer societies grappling with the HIV AIDS epidemic and why those interested in changing behaviors to ameliorate other health problems like obesity alcoholism and substance abuse have so much to learn from the South African example

HIV Risk Exposure Among Young Children Olive Shisana,2005 South Africa has until now focused its HIV prevention efforts on youth and adults and now needs to expand its focus to include children Much is already known about vertical transmission which is the dominant mode of HIV transmission among children

Aging in Sub-Saharan Africa National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Committee on Population,Panel on Policy Research and Data Needs to Meet the Challenge of Aging in Africa,2006-11-10 In sub Saharan Africa older people make up a relatively small fraction of the total population and are supported primarily by family and other kinship networks They have traditionally been viewed as repositories of information and wisdom and are critical pillars of the community but as the HIV AIDS pandemic destroys family systems the elderly increasingly have to deal with the loss of their own support while absorbing the additional responsibilities of caring for their orphaned grandchildren Aging in Sub Saharan Africa explores ways to promote U S research interests and to augment the sub Saharan governments capacity to address the many challenges posed by population aging Five major themes are explored in the book such as the need for a basic definition of older person the need for national governments to invest more in basic research and the coordination of data collection across countries and the need for improved dialogue between local researchers and policy makers This book makes three major recommendations 1 the development of a research agenda 2 enhancing research opportunity and implementation and 3 the translation of research findings Men Behaving Differently Graeme Reid,Liz Walker,2005

Recent years have seen a growing world wide concern about men and boys Do boys have appropriate role models at home Are girls outperforming boys at school Is men s health under undue pressure The African AIDS Epidemic John Iliffe,2005-02-15 This history of the African AIDS epidemic is a much needed accessibly written historical account of the most serious epidemiological catastrophe of modern times The African AIDS Epidemic A History answers President Thabo Mbeki s provocative question as to why Africa has suffered this terrible epidemic While Mbeki attributed the causes to poverty and exploitation others have looked to distinctive sexual systems practiced in African cultures and communities John Iliffe stresses historical sequence He argues that Africa has had the worst epidemic because the disease was established in the general population before anyone knew the disease existed HIV evolved with extraordinary speed and complexity and because that evolution took place under the eyes of modern medical research scientists Iliffe has been able to write a history of the virus itself that is probably unique among accounts of human epidemic diseases In giving the African experience a historical shape Iliffe has written one of the most important books of our time The African experience of AIDS has taught the world much of what it knows about HIV AIDS and this fascinating book brings into focus many aspects of the epidemic in the longer context of massive demographic growth urbanization and social change in Africa during the latter half of the twentieth century The African AIDS Epidemic A History is a brilliant introduction to the many aspects of the epidemic and the distinctive character of the virus Feminisms, HIV and AIDS V. Tallis,2012-07-30 Women are disproportionately affected by HIV and AIDS By focusing on the pandemic at its epicentre in Southern Africa this book explores the gendered power inequalities driving women s vulnerability to HIV and provides suggestions of how to individually and collectively address women s oppression HIV/AIDS in South Africa 25 Years On Poul Rohleder,Leslie Swartz,Seth C. Kalichman,Leickness Chisamu Simbayi,2009-09-01 Much has happened since the first appearance of AIDS in 1981 it has been identified studied and occasionally denied The virus has shifted host populations and spread globally Medicine the social sciences and world governments have joined forces to combat and prevent the disease And South Africa has emerged as ground zero for the pandemic The editors of HIV AIDS in South Africa 25 Years On present the South African crisis as a template for addressing the myriad issues surrounding the epidemic worldwide as the book brings together a widely scattered body of literature analyzes psychosocial and sexual aspects contributing to HIV transmission and prevention and delves into complex intersections of race gender class and politics Including largely overlooked populations and issues e g prisoners persons with disabilities stigma as well as challenges shaping future research and policy the contributors approach their topics with rare depth meticulous research carefully drawn conclusions and profound compassion Among the topics covered The relationship between HIV and poverty starting from the question Which is the determinant and which is the consequence Epidemiology of HIV among women and men concepts of femininity and masculinity and gender inequities as they affect HIV risk gender specific prevention and intervention strategies The impact of AIDS on infants and young children risk and protective factors care of children by HIV positive mothers HIV infected children Current prevention and treatment projects including local level responses community based work and VCT voluntary counseling and testing programs New directions promoting circumcision vaccine trials positive prevention South Africa s history of AIDS denialism The urgent lessons in this book apply both globally and locally making HIV AIDS in South Africa 25 Years On uniquely instructive and useful for professionals working in HIV AIDS and global public health

A Situational Analysis of Orphans and Vulnerable Children in Four Districts of South Africa Alicia Davids, 2006 In 2002 the Human Sciences Research Council was commissioned by the WK Kellogg Foundation to develop and implement a five year intervention project focusing on orphans and vulnerable children OVC in southern Africa In collaboration with several partner organizations the project currently focuses on how children families and communities in Botswana South Africa and Zimbabwe are coping with the impact of HIV AIDS The aim of the project is to develop models of best practise so as to enhance and improve support structures for OVC in the southern African region as a whole This report forms part of a series that examines the work undertaken as part of the Kellogg OVC Intervention Project from 2002 to 2005

HIV/AIDS and the Power of Decision Making Anne Löffler, 2008 Regarding the HIV infection rate of 14 percent in 2005 South Africa is battling with one of the most severe HIV AIDS pandemics worldwide Obviously HIV AIDS programs have had only scarce effects on the growing prevalence rate The strategies of the national and international health promotion seem to lack the recognition of cultural preconditions of the people The socio cultural upbringing of an individual with all its morale and normative codex is channelling situations of socializing with other people such as friendships and partnerships are The book is based on research data gathered during several field stays in a South African township After giving a brief introduction into the cultural understanding of sickness and healing the author puts her main focus on the vulnerability of the women to the pandemic with reference to gender power relations Besides she identifies the invisibility of the actual outspread of the virus as the main source of stagnation of the Anti HIV AIDS battle Finally this book is supposed to highlight the inevitable need for cultural knowledge at the outset of any HIV AIDS program of governmental and non governmental organisations
