Second Text Retrieval Conference (TREC-2) BPI Information Services, DIANE Publishing Company, 1994-01-01 This report constitutes the proceedings of the Second Text Retrieval Conference held in Gaithersburg Maryland August 31 September 2 1993 The conference was the second in an on going series of workshops to evaluate new technologies in information text retrieval Natural Language Information Retrieval T. Strzalkowski, 2013-04-17 The last decade has been one of dramatic progress in the field of Natural Language Processing NLP This hitherto largely academic discipline has found itself at the center of an information revolution ushered in by the Internet age as demand for human computer communication and information access has exploded Emerging applications in computer assisted information production and dissemination automated understanding of news understanding of spoken language and processing of foreign languages have given impetus to research that resulted in a new generation of robust tools systems and commercial products Well positioned government research funding particularly in the U S has helped to advance the state of the art at an unprecedented pace in no small measure thanks to the rigorous 1 evaluations This volume focuses on the use of Natural Language Processing in In formation Retrieval IR an area of science and technology that deals with cataloging categorization classification and search of large amounts of information particularly in textual form An outcome of an information retrieval process is usually a set of documents containing information on a given topic and may consist of newspaper like articles memos reports of any kind entire books as well as annotated image and sound files Since we assume that the information is primarily encoded as text IR is also a natural language processing problem in order to decide if a document is relevant to a given information need one needs to be able to understand its content

Advances in Information Retrieval W. Bruce Croft, 2006-04-11 The Center for Intelligent Information Retrieval CIIR was formed in the Computer Science Department of the University of Massachusetts Amherst in 1992 The core support for the Center came from a National Science Foundation State Industry University Cooperative Research Center S IUCRC grant although there had been a sizeable information retrieval IR research group for over 10 years prior to that grant The basic goal of these Centers is to combine basic research applied research and technology transfer The CIIR has been successful in each of these areas in that it has produced over 270 research papers has been involved in many successful government and industry collaborations and has had a significant role in high visibility Internet sites and start ups As a result of these efforts the CIIR has become known internationally as one of the leading research groups in the area of information retrieval The CIIR focuses on research that results in more effective and efficient access and discovery in large heterogeneous distributed text and multimedia databases The scope of the work that is done in the CIIR is broad and goes significantly beyond traditional areas of information retrieval such as retrieval models cross lingual search and automatic query expansion The research includes both low level systems issues such as the design of protocols and architectures for distributed search as well as more human centered topics such as user interface design visualization and data mining with text and multimedia retrieval

Information Retrieval David A. Grossman, Ophir Frieder, 2012-12-06 Information Retrieval Algorithms and Heuristics is a comprehensive introduction to the study of information retrieval covering both effectiveness and run time performance The focus of the presentation is on algorithms and heuristics used to find documents relevant to the user request and to find them fast Through multiple examples the most commonly used algorithms and heuristics needed are tackled To facilitate understanding and applications introductions to and discussions of computational linguistics natural language processing probability theory and library and computer science are provided While this text focuses on algorithms and not on commercial product per se the basic strategies used by many commercial products are described Techniques that can be used to find information on the Web as well as in other large information collections are included This volume is an invaluable resource for researchers practitioners and students working in information retrieval and databases For instructors a set of Powerpoint slides including speaker notes are available online from the authors Digital Libraries Maristella Agosti, Floriana Esposito, Costantino Thanos, 2010-09-11 This book constitutes the proceedings of the 6th Italian Research Conference on Digital Libraries held in Padua Italy in January 2010 ImageCLEF Henning Müller, Paul Clough, Thomas Deselaers, Barbara Caputo, 2010-08-20 The pervasive creation and consumption of content especially visual content is ingrained into our modern world We are constantly consuming visual media content in printed form and in digital form in work and in leisure pursuits Like our cave man forefathers we use pictures to record things which are of importance to us as memory cues for the future but nowadays we also use pictures and images to document processes we use them in engineering in art in science in medicine in entertainment and we also use images in advertising Moreover when images are in digital format either scanned from an analogue format or more often than not born digital we can use the power of our computing and networking to exploit images to great effect Most of the technical problems associated with creating compressing storing transmitting rendering and protecting image data are already solved We use accepted standards and have tremendous infrastructure and the only outstanding challenges apart from managing the scale issues associated with growth are to do with locating images That involves analysing them to determine their content classifying them into related groupings and searching for images To overcome these challenges we currently rely on image metadata the description of the images then captured automatically at creation time or manually added afterwards Accessing Multilingual Information Repositories Cross-Language Evaluation Forum. Workshop, Carol Peters, 2006-09-20 This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed postproceedings of the 6th Workshop of the Cross Language Evaluation Forum CLEF 2005 The book presents 111 revised papers together with an introduction Topical sections include multilingual textual document retrieval cross language and more monolingual experiments domain specific information retrieval interactive cross language information retrieval multiple language question answering cross language retrieval in image collections cross language speech retrieval multilingual Web track cross language geographical retrieval and evaluation issues Information Retrieval Evaluation Donna Harman, 2011-06-06 Evaluation has always played a major role in information retrieval with the early pioneers such as Cyril Cleverdon and Gerard Salton laying the foundations for most of the evaluation methodologies in use today The retrieval community has been extremely fortunate to have such a well grounded evaluation paradigm during a period when most of the human language technologies were just developing This lecture has the goal of explaining where these evaluation methodologies came from and how they have continued to adapt to the vastly changed environment in the search engine world today The lecture starts with a discussion of the early evaluation of information retrieval systems starting with the Cranfield testing in the early 1960s continuing with the Lancaster user study for MEDLARS and presenting the various test collection investigations by the SMART project and by groups in Britain The emphasis in this chapter is on the how and the

why of the various methodologies developed The second chapter covers the more recent batch evaluations examining the methodologies used in the various open evaluation campaigns such as TREC NTCIR emphasis on Asian languages CLEF emphasis on European languages INEX emphasis on semi structured data etc Here again the focus is on the how and why and in particular on the evolving of the older evaluation methodologies to handle new information access techniques This includes how the test collection techniques were modified and how the metrics were changed to better reflect operational environments The final chapters look at evaluation issues in user studies the interactive part of information retrieval including a look at the search log studies mainly done by the commercial search engines Here the goal is to show via case studies how the high level issues of experimental design affect the final evaluations Table of Contents Introduction and Early History Batch Evaluation Since 1992 Interactive Evaluation Conclusion
