Congress. House. Committee on Education and the Workforce,1998 Mathematicians and Education Reform, 1990-1991 Naomi Fisher,1993 This is the latest volume in the CBMS Conference Board of the Mathematical Sciences Issues in Mathematics Education series which seeks to stimulate the flow of information among mathematical scientists mathematics educators and mathematics teachers about innovative efforts to revitalize the teaching of the mathematical sciences at all levels The first part of this volume is devoted to detailed descriptions of a wide variety of educational projects undertaken by mathematicians These descriptions focus for the most part on substantial enterprises with an investment of several years and systematic review and evaluation By contrast the second part of the book centres on ideas that could be put into action at a modest level as a springboard for longer term projects This book is intended to stimulate and inspire mathematical scientists to pursue educational work In addition those who have already ventured into educational activities and may be ready for deeper involvement will also benefit from this exploration of what can be done This series is published in cooperation with the Mathematical Association of America Effects of State-level Reform of Elementary School Mathematics Curriculum on Classroom Practice ,1990 Assessment of Authentic Performance in School Mathematics Richard A. Lesh,Susan J. Lamon,2013-04-03 This book is the result of a conference sponsored by the Educational Testing Service and the University of Wisconsin s National Center for Research in Mathematical Sciences Education The purpose of the conference was to facilitate the work of a group of scholars whose interests included the assessment of higher order understandings and processes in foundation level pre high school mathematics Discussions focused on such issues as the purposes of assessment guidelines for producing and scoring real life assessment activities and the meanings of such terms as deeper and higher order understanding cognitive objectives and authentic mathematical activities Assessment was viewed as a critical component of complex dynamic and continually adapting educational systems During the time that the chapters in this book were being written sweeping changes in mathematics education were being initiated in response to powerful recent advances in technology cognitive psychology and mathematics as well as to numerous public demands for educational reform These changes have already resulted in significant reappraisals of what it means to understand mathematics of the nature of mathematics teaching and learning and of the real life situations in which mathematics is useful The challenge was to pursue assessment related initiatives that are systematically valid in the sense that they work to complement and enhance other improvements in the educational system rather than act as an impediment to badly needed curriculum reforms To address these issues most chapters in this book focus on clarifying and articulating the goals of assessment and instruction and they stress the content of assessment above its mode of delivery Computer or portfolio based assessments are interpreted as means to ends not as ends in themselves Assessment is conceived as an ongoing documentation process seamless with instruction whose quality hinges upon its ability to provide complete and appropriate information as needed to inform priorities in instructional decision making This book tackles some of the most complicated issues related to assessment and it offers fresh perspectives from leaders in the field with the hope that the ultimate consumer in the instruction assessment enterprise the individual student will reclaim his or her potential for self directed mathematics learning
