1. Introspection Method:

This method was introduced by EB Titchener. This is also known as self-observation method. Introspection means 'to look within'.

It is not possible to understand the inner feelings and experiences of other persons. But the individual himself can observe and report.

Example: A patient can report about his pains and other disturbances in a better way than by a nurse. He will look within himself and explain how he is feeling. This will help for a better treatment. Though Introspection is a useful method, it has some demerits also.

These are:

(a) We cannot verify the reports given by the observer hence we have to accept his report. At times even if he is reporting correctly there may be distortions

(b) This method cannot be used to study children, animals and persons suffering from mental disorders. But this is a cheap and easy method.

In addition Longino reflects on the reception and transmission of this behavioral research in scientific social clinical and political spheres A highly significant and innovative study that bears on crucial scientific questions Studying Human Behavior will be essential reading not only for scientists and philosophers but also for science journalists and anyone interested in the engrossing challenges of understanding human behavior
