J. Bennett, Robert P.

Giloth, 2012-02-01 Economic Development in American Cities addresses the roles of municipal leaders and civic partners in promoting social equity by examining the experiences of five American cities in the 1990s Austin Cleveland Rochester Savannah and Seattle These five cities were chosen for their activist municipal administrations robust policy agendas and viable partnerships Contributors familiar with each city evaluate the impact of equity investments and extract lessons for municipal leaders and policy agendas Building on the past experiences of progressive cities each case study city offers fresh perspectives and examples told through a rigorous analysis of socioeconomic data and program outcomes combined with engaging stories about specific municipal administrations and policy agendas Who Defended The Country? Elaine Scarry, 2003-05-15 Through a minute by minute analysis of the phone calls official reports responses and reported actions of passengers on two hijacked flights United Airlines 93 which crashed in Pennsylvania and American Airlines 77 which crashed into the Pentagon Elaine Scarry offers a dramatic retelling of their fate and some startling conclusions Leading off a provocative debate she asks if the difficulty we had as a country in defending ourselves on September 11 suggests serious flaws in our national security The need to act in a matter of minutes has been invoked to justify military arrangements increasingly outside the citizenry's control yet the only successful defense on September 11 was carried out after a vote by the passengers themselves on hijacked Flight 93 Arguments made at the time of the writing of the Constitution judged that the only plausible way to defend the home ground was to have actions measured against the norms of civilian life the military had to be held within a civil frame Scarry asks have we strayed too far from this model Does our authoritarian conception of national defense diminish our capacity to protect ourselves Is it legal Is it moral Responding to her argument are nine prominent thinkers and writers from across the political spectrum including Richard Falk Ellen Willis Admiral Eugene Carroll and Antonia Chayes The Regional Governing Of Metropolitan America David Miller, 2018-03-14 Economic regions competing in a global marketplace describes the future organizing principle of urban regions This emerging principle contrasts sharply with the historical notion of regions as the informal area in which geo political bounded municipalities operating in an intergovernmental framework As such we are becoming a planet of regions and some regions are moving faster to incorporate new ways of governing than others Regional Governance of Metropolitan America compares and contrasts governance strategies being adopted or are being considered in regions throughout North America These strategies find their final tests in dealing with issues such as the deep socio economic gulf between poor cities and affluent suburbs physical sprawl from urban growth and its environmental and social consequences and America s hesitation in creating effective systems of coordinated governance for city states Utilizing an historical review of the development of the current legal framework within which municipalities have been organized the book then examines the competing theoretical frameworks assessing what makes for a successful governance strategy in a region 081339807x the Regional Governing of Metropolitan America Governing the Metropolitan Region: America's New Frontier: 2014 David Y Miller, Raymond Cox, 2015-01-28 This text is aimed at the basic local government management course upper division or graduate that addresses the structural political and management issues associated with regional and metropolitan government It also can complement more specialized courses such as urban planning urban government state and local politics and intergovernmental relations Up Against the Sprawl Jennifer R. Wolch, Manuel Pastor, Peter Dreier, 2004 Economists political scientists geographers and urban planners explore how government policy has shaped the development of greater Los Angeles They challenge the myth of market choice and point to the key roles of government policy often driven by business priorities In addition they show how residents are developing innovative approaches to Place Matters Peter Dreier, John H. Mollenkopf, Todd Swanstrom, 2004 Analyzes the problematic trends facing America s cities and older suburbs and challenges us to put America s urban crisis back on the national agenda Global Fragments Eduardo Mendieta, 2012-02-01 Global Fragments offers an innovative analysis of globalization that aims to circumvent the sterile dichotomies that either praise or demonize globalization Eduardo Mendieta applies an interdisciplinary approach to one of the most fundamental experiences of globalization the mega urbanization of humanity The claim that globalization unsettles our epistemic maps of the world is tested against a study of Latin America Mendieta also recontextualizes the work of three major theorists of globalization Enrique Dussel Cornel West and Jürgen Habermas to show how their thinking reflects engagement with central problems of globalization and conversely how globalization itself is exemplified through the reception of their work Beyond the epistemic hubris of social theories that seek to accept or reject a globalized world Mendieta calls for a dialogic cosmopolitanism that departs from the mutuality of teaching and learning in a world that is global but not totalized Ideas That Matter Debra Satz, Annabelle Lever, 2019-09-02 The essays in this volume take off from themes in the work of eminent philosopher and political scientist Joshua Cohen They center around three central ideas democracy confronting injustice and formulating political principles and values in an interdependent world Retooling for Growth Richard McGahey, Jennifer S. Vey, 2008-07-01 A Brookings Institution Press and American Assembly publication Slow job growth declining home values a diminishing tax base and concentrated poverty are but a few of the growing obstacles for well established but struggling cities Challenged by decades of globalization technological change and dramatic demographic shifts away from the urban core these former industrial powerhouses particularly in the Northeast and Midwest have been eclipsed by burgeoning American cities with a viable niche in the new economy In Retooling for Growth experts present new frameworks cutting edge analysis and innovative policy solutions for the nation s government business civic and community leaders to sculpt a sustainable and supportable economy for older industrial areas The unique focus on rehabilitating weak market cities outlines ideas for reshaping the role of public agencies the workforce business organizations and technology Implementation of these measures addresses challenges such as fostering entrepreneurship reducing poverty and inequality and maintaining and augmenting the number of skilled professionals who reside and work in a community among others This collection of essays offers practical achievable strategies for revitalizing industrial areas and building upon the potential of existing but overlooked resources of economic physical and cultural significance In this important volume leading authorities provide a thought provoking analysis of healthy economic development practices for both public and private sectors

Who's Qualified? Lani Guinier, Susan Sturm, 2001-07-08 Affirmative action originated as a plan to correct the historical disadvantage of women and people of color to make the system more fair Yet for over twenty years it has been repeatedly attacked for being unfair to whites and even un American Guinier and Sturm begin with a critique of affirmative action as it stands now arguing that a system of selection that determines qualification from test scores and then adds on factors like race and gender doesn t work either for the people it includes or the people it leaves out But they go further asking us to rethink how we evaluate merit Marshaling lively examples from education and the workplace they expose the failure of tests to predict success They provide evidence that people s success depends on the opportunities they have to perform and that institutions do best when they are open to unanticipated contributions Offering a model of selection based on performance not prediction the authors reconception of an old ideal suggests at once a smart business practice and a step toward the promise of democratic opportunity Paul Osterman Stephen Steinberg Peter Sacks and others respond NEW DEMOCRACY FORUM A series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns The series editors for Boston Review Joshua Cohen and Joel Rogers aim to foster politically engaged intellectually honest and morally serious debate about fundamental issues both on and off the agenda of conventional politics The New Old Economy Josh Whitford, 2005-11-03 American manufacturing is in obvious crisis the sector lost three million jobs between 2000 and 2003 as the American trade deficit shot to record highs Manufacturers have increasingly decentralized productive responsibilities to armies of supplier firms both domestically and abroad Many have speculated as to whether or not manufacturing is even feasible in the United States given the difficulties Josh Whitford s book examines the issues behind this crisis looking at the emergence of a new old economy in which relationships between firms have become much more important Whitford shows that discussion of this shift in the media and in the academic literature hits on the right issues globalization de industrialization and the outsourcing of production in marketized and in network relationships but in an overly polarized way that obscures as much as it enlightens Drawing on the results of extensive interviews conducted with manufacturers in the American Upper Midwest Whitford shows that the range of possibilities is more complex and contingent than is usually recognised Highlighting heretofore unexamined elements of constraint contradiction and innovation that characterize contemporary network production models Whitford shakes received understandings in economic and organizational sociology comparative political economy and economic geography to reveal ways in which the American economic development apparatus can be adjusted to better meet the challenges of a highly decentralized production regime Urban Sprawl Gregory D. Squires,2002-05-02 Urban Sprawl is not simply a development that undercuts the quality of life for suburbanites It has raised alarms across the nation as fair housing advocates environmentalists land use planners and even many suburban employers who cannot find the workers they need have recognized that the costs go far beyond aesthetics Despite the agreement that something needs to be done there is no consensus on what works Urban Sprawl Causes Consequences and Policy Responses assembles leading scholars who analyze the major causes and consequences of urban sprawl and the policy initiatives that are being explored in response to these developments For Love of Country? Martha Nussbaum,2002-06-06 After the terrorist attacks on the Pentagon and the World Trade Center American flags appeared everywhere Is patriotism a good response at a time of national crisis What does it mean for us to think of ourselves as a nation first With our connections to the world growing stronger and more vital than ever Martha C Nussbaum argues that we should distrust conventional patriotism as parochial and instead see ourselves first of all as citizens of the world Sixteen prominent writers and thinkers respond including Benjamin R Barber Sissela Bok Nathan Glazer Robert Pinsky Elaine Scarry Amartya Sen and Michael Walzer NEW DEMOCRACY FORUM A series of short paperback originals exploring creative solutions to our most urgent national concerns The series editors for Boston Review Joshua Cohen and Joel Rogers aim to foster politically engaged intellectually honest and morally serious debate about fundamental issues both on and off the agenda of conventional politics Surviving the New Economy John Amman,Tris Carpenter,Gina Neff,2015-12-03 The dot com boom of the late 1990s marked the coming of age of the much heralded New Economy an economic technological and social transformation that was decades in the making A highly mobile and in many cases highly compensated workforce faces a multitude of new risks Jobs are no longer secure nor insulated from global competition employer provided health benefits are drying up and retirement planning is almost entirely the responsibility of employees themselves This timely book examines the challenges facing high tech workers and other professionals and the relevance of these struggles for the future of the economy Written by leading experts Surviving the New Economy shows how people working in technology industries are addressing their concerns via both traditional collective bargaining and through innovative actions Using case studies from the United States and abroad the authors in this collection examine how highly skilled workers are surviving in a global economy in which the rules have changed and how they are reshaping their workplaces in the process Urban Spaces

James Jennings, Julia Sheron Jordan-Zachery, 2010-01-01 Urban Spaces is an interdisciplinary reader focusing on community based versus corporate based political and ideological struggles over the utilization of urban land and spaces Root-Cause Regulation

Michael J. Piore, Andrew Schrank, 2018-04-09 Work is more deadly than war and the U S has one of the highest rates of occupational fatality in the developed world Why after a century of reform are U S workers growing less secure Michael Piore and Andrew Schrank show how regulation can be a generative force for both workers and employers rather than the job killer of neoliberal theory Remaking American Communities
