The Food Section Kimberly Wilmot Voss, 2014-04-24 Food blogs are everywhere today but for generations information and opinions about food were found in the food sections of newspapers in communities large and small Until the early 1970s these sections were housed in the women s pages of newspapers where women could hold an authoritative voice The food editors often a mix of trained journalist and home economist reported on everything from nutrition news to features on the new chef in town They wrote recipes and solicited ideas from readers The sections reflected the trends of the time and the cooks of the community The editors were local celebrities judging cooking contests and getting calls at home about how to prepare a Thanksgiving turkey They were consumer advocates and reporters for food safety and nutrition They helped make James Beard and Julia Child household names as the editors wrote about their television appearances and reviewed their cookbooks These food editors laid the foundation for the food community that Nora Ephron described in her classic 1968 essay The Food Establishment and eventually led to the food communities of today Included in the chapters are profiles of such food editors as Jane Nickerson Jeanne Voltz and Ruth Ellen Church who were unheralded pioneers in the field as well as Cecily Brownstone Poppy Cannon and Clementine Paddleford who are well known today an analysis of their work demonstrates changes in the country's culinary history The book concludes with a look at how the women's pages folded at the same time that home economics saw its field transformed and with thoughts about the foundation that these women laid for the food journalism of today

The Noir Thriller Lee Horsley, 2016-01-03 What is literary noir How do British and American noir thrillers relate to their historical contexts In considering such questions this study ranges over hundreds of novels analysing the politics and poetics of noir from the hard boiled fiction of Hammett Chandler and Cain to the exciting diversity of nineties thrillers with sections on the tough investigators gangsters and victims of the Depression years the first person killers femmes fatales and black protagonists of mid century the game players voyeurs and consumers of contemporary thrillers and future noir

The China Threat Nancy Bernkopf Tucker, 2014-03-04 Nancy Bernkopf Tucker confronts the coldest period of the cold war the moment in which personality American political culture public opinion and high politics came together to define the Eisenhower Administration's policy toward China A sophisticated multidimensional account based on prodigious cutting edge research this volume convincingly portrays Eisenhower's private belief that close relations between the United States and the People's Republic of China were inevitable and that careful consideration of the PRC should constitute a critical part of American diplomacy Tucker provocatively argues that the Eisenhower Administration's hostile rhetoric and tough actions toward China obscure the president's actual views Behind the scenes Eisenhower and his Secretary of State John Foster Dulles pursued a more nuanced approach one better suited to China's specific challenges and the stabilization of the global community Tucker deftly explores the contradictions between Eisenhower and his advisors public and private positions Her most powerful chapter centers on Eisenhower's recognition that rigid trade prohibitions would undermine the global postwar economic recovery and push China into a closer relationship with the Soviet Union Ultimately Tucker finds Eisenhower's strategic thinking on Europe and his fear of toxic anticommunist domestic politics constrained his leadership making a fundamental shift in U S policy toward China difficult if not impossible Consequently the president was unable to engage congress and the public effectively on China ultimately failing to realize his own high standards as a leader

The Cooking of History Stephan Palmié, 2013-06-14 Over a lifetime of studying Cuban Santería and other religions related to Orisha worship a practice also found among the Yoruba in West Africa Stephan Palmié has grown progressively uneasy with the assumptions inherent in the very term Afro-Cuban religion In The Cooking of History he provides a comprehensive analysis of these assumptions in the process offering an incisive critique both of the anthropology of religion and of scholarship on the cultural history of the Afro-Atlantic World Understood largely through its rituals and ceremonies Santería and related religions have been a challenge for anthropologists to link to a hypothetical African past But Palmié argues precisely by relying on the notion of an aboriginal African past and by claiming to authenticate these religions via their findings anthropologists some of whom have converted to these religions have exerted considerable influence upon contemporary practices Critiquing widespread and damaging simplifications that posit religious practices as stable and self-contained Palmié calls for a drastic new approach that properly situates cultural origins within the complex social environments and scholarly fields in which they are investigated
