

Healthcare Policy: Look Outside Washington

Few enduring improvements in the quality or cost of healthcare will originate in the nation's capital.

- Make efforts to identify creative and resourceful providers, purchasers, payors and others who are developing models to improve healthcare.
- Encourage disruptive innovations that improve care at lower cost.
- Network with colleagues in order to share resources and generate new ideas.
- Monitor state legislative actions closely.

This Note outlines the research plan for RAND's Preferred Provider Organization (PPO) Study which will analyze the experience of six large employers that have contracted with one or more PPOs to provide additional options for employees participating in the employers' health benefits plans. The research plan is designed to answer three broad questions: 1. What are the characteristics of employees who elect to enroll in the PPO plan or use providers participating in the PPO? 2. What is the effect of PPOs on health services utilization and costs? 3. Do providers participating in PPOs practice differently from those declining to participate or those not included in the PPO? The study will use econometric analysis, simulation, actuarial analysis, and case studies, and it will use four kinds of data: personnel records, surveys of employees' health insurance claims data, and a survey of physicians.
