Rethinking Los Angeles Michael Dear, H. Eric Schockman, Greg Hise, 1996-08-20 The Los Angeles region is increasingly being held up as a prototype for the collective urban future of the United States Yet it is probably the least understood most under studied major city in the US Very few people beyond the boundaries of Southern California have an accurate appreciation of what the region is who lives there and what it does This groundbreaking collection of essays brings together well respected contributors to dispel the myths about Southern California and to begin the process of rethinking Los Angeles

math and to use math to make sense of their worlds Despite their gifts students with disabilities are often viewed from a deficit standpoint in mathematics classrooms These students are often conceptualized as needing to be fixed or remediated Rethinking Disability and Mathematics argues that mathematics should be a transformative space for these students a place where they can discover their power and potential and be appreciated for their many strengths Author Rachel Lambert introduces Universal Design for Learning for Math UDL Math a way to design math classrooms that empowers disabled and neurodiverse students to engage in mathematics in ways that lead to meaningful and joyful math learning The book showcases how UDL Math can open up mathematics classrooms so that they provide access to meaningful understanding and an identity as a math learner to a wider range of students Weaved throughout the book are the voices of neurodiverse learners telling their own stories of math learning Through stories of real teachers recognizing the barriers in their own math classrooms and redesigning to increase access the book Reframes students with disabilities from a deficit to an asset perspective paving the way for trusting their mathematical thinking Offers equitable math instruction for all learners including those with disabilities neurodiverse students and or multilingual learners Applies UDL to the math classroom providing practical tips and techniques to support students cognitive affective and strategic development Immerses readers in math classrooms where all students are engaged in meaningful mathematics from special education day classes to inclusive general education classrooms from grades K 8 Integrates research on mathematical learning including critical math content such as developing number sense and place value fluency with math facts and operations and understanding fractions and algebraic thinking Explores critical issues such as writing IEP goals in math This book is designed for all math educators both those trained as general education teachers and those trained as special education teachers The UDL Math approach is adapted to work for all learners because everyone varies in how they perceive the world and in how they approach mathematical problem solving When we rethink mathematics to include multiple ways of being a math learner we make math accessible and engaging for a wider group of learners

Rethinking Parking David Mephram,2023-12-22 For much of the past century we have viewed the issue of parking from the driver s seat It follows that key narratives about parking reaffirm the immediate needs of the driver A consequence of this approach is a failure to understand the significant damage that parking causes to the destination That damage is amplified by cheap easy parking at the expense of place and access outcomes Viewing parking from an urban planning and design perspective highlights different issues and opportunities Five perspectives are offered Place If we gave drivers all the parking they wanted the destination would not be worth visiting Politics Parking is intensely territorial emotional and prone to populism and this is a barrier to strategic and sustainable parking reform Policy Parking tends to be focused on the me here and now needs of the driver at the expense of bigger picture and longer term policy objectives Price Subsidized parking exists behind opaque pricing mechanisms In contrast a transparent accounting of costs is a vehicle for strategic parking reform Professional practice Parking is a significant land use issue located at the juncture of transport and urban planning and design Improving urban parking outcomes requires an integrated and collaborative planning process An alternative view of parking is timely as new technologies and economies fundamentally change everything we understand about parking A potential paradigm shift is in the making Rethinking Parking provides a pathway to a better parking place balance and access to destinations worth visiting It is valuable reading for students and professionals engaged in transport planning urban access and design

Rethinking Our Classrooms Rethinking Schools, Ltd. Milwaukee, WI.,2001 Readings resources lesson plans and reproducible student handouts aimed at teaching students to question the traditional ideas and images that interfere with social justice and community building Magnetic Los Angeles Greg Hise,1999-08-20 Suburban development is often considered synonymous with enhanced personal mobility single family housing and life cycle homogeneity According to this view individual suburbs are residence only enclaves isolated commuter sheds for a managerial and mercantile elite Magnetic Los Angeles challenges this common vision of the expanding twentieth century city as the sprawling product of dispersion without planning lacking any discernable order Rethinking Multicultural Education 3rd Edition Wayne Au,2024-01-18 From book bans to teacher firings to racist content standards the politics of teaching race and culture in schools have shifted dramatically in recent years This 3rd edition of Rethinking Multicultural Education has been greatly revised and expanded to reflect these changing times including sections on Intersectional Identities Anti Racist Teaching Across the Curriculum Teaching for Black Lives and K 12 Ethnic Studies among others Practical rich in story and analytically sharp Rethinking Multicultural Education can help current and future educators as they seek to bring racial and cultural justice into their own classrooms Rethinking America's Past Robert Cohen,Sonia E. Murrow,2021-11-01 No introductory work of American history has had more influence over the past forty years than Howard Zinn's A People's History of the United States which since its publication in 1980 has sold more than three million copies Zinn's iconoclastic critique of American militarism racism and capitalism has drawn bitter criticism from the Right most recently from President Donald Trump who at his White House Conference on American History in 2020 denounced Zinn as a Left propagandist and accused teachers aligned with Zinn of indoctrinating students to hate America and be ashamed of its history Rethinking America's Past is the first work to use archival and classroom evidence to assess the impact that Zinn's classic work has had on historical teaching and learning and on American culture This evidence refutes Trump's charges showing that rather than indoctrinating students Zinn's book has been used by teachers to have students debate and rethink conventional versions of American history Rethinking America's Past also explores the ways Zinn's work fostered deeper more critical renderings of the American past in movies and on stage and television and traces the origins and assesses the strengths and weaknesses of A People's History in light of more recent historical scholarship Rethinking Home Joseph A. Amato,2002-04-01 Joseph A. Amato proposes a bold and innovative approach to writing local history in this imaginative wide ranging and deeply engaging exploration of the meaning of place and home Arguing that people of every place and time deserve a history Amato draws on his background as a European cultural historian and a prolific writer of local history to explore such topics as the history of cleanliness sound anger madness the clandestine and the environment in southwestern Minnesota While dedicated to the unique experiences of a place his lively work demonstrates that contemporary local history provides a vital link for understanding the relation between immediate experience and the metamorphosis of the world at large In an era of encompassing forces and global sensibilities Rethinking Home advocates the power of local history to revivify the individual the concrete and the particular This singular book offers fresh perspectives themes and approaches for energizing local history at a time when the very notion of place is in jeopardy Amato explains how local historians shape their work around objects we can touch and institutions we have directly experienced For them theory always gives way to facts His vivid portraits of individual people places situations and cases which include murders crop scams and taking custody of the law are joined to local illustrations of the use of environmental and ecological history This book also puts local history in the service of contemporary history with the examination of recent demographic social and cultural transformations Critical concluding chapters on politics and literature especially Sinclair Lewis s Main Street and Longfellow s Hiawatha show how metaphor and myth invent distort and hold captive local towns peoples and places Rethinking Our Classrooms, Volume 2, 2001

Race and the War on Poverty Robert Bauman, 2022-08-16 President Lyndon B Johnson s War on Poverty did more than offer aid to needy Americans in some cities it also sparked both racial conflict and cooperation Race and the War on Poverty examines the African American and Mexican American community organizations in Los Angeles that emerged to implement War on Poverty programs It explores how organizers applied democratic vision and political savvy to community action and how the ongoing African American Chicano and feminist movements in turn shaped the contours of the War on Poverty s goals programs and cultural identity Robert Bauman describes how the Watts riots of 1965 accelerated the creation of a black community controlled agency the Watts Labor Community Action Committee The example of the WLCAC combined with a burgeoning Chicano movement inspired Mexican Americans to create The East Los Angeles Community Union TELACU and the Chicana Service Action Center Bauman explores the connections that wove together the War on Poverty the Watts revolt and local movements in ways that empowered the participants economically culturally and politically Although heated battles over race and other cultural issues sometimes derailed the programs these organizations produced lasting positive effects for the communities they touched Despite Nixon era budget cuts and the nation s turn toward conservatism the War on Poverty continues to be fought today as these agencies embrace the changing politics economics and demographics of Los Angeles Race and the War on Poverty shows how the struggle to end poverty evolved in ways that would have surprised its planners supporters and detractors and that what began as a grand vision at the national level continues to thrive on the streets of the community

Rethinking Relation-Substance Dualism Aurélie Névot, 2024-01-16 This book analyses anthropological debates on relationism referring to methodological and theoretical issues and sets out to reconsider these discussions with regards to the notion of substance generally associated with the body Reflecting on the philosophical origins and implications of these two concepts the author aims to bring them to the heart of contemporary anthropological discourse and addresses the erasure or blurring of substance in favour of relation The argument put forward is that the conceptual pairing of substance relation should be substituted for the nature culture dualism that has been dominant in structural anthropology The chapters engage with the work of scholars such as Philippe

Descola Eduardo Viveiros de Castro and Wang Mingming as part of a decentring and questioning of the tradition in which anthropology is rooted The book also considers the role that the anthropology of China plays in the re evaluation of the relationship between relation and substance The concept of submutance is introduced with Chinese ethnographic material to explore the possibility of moving beyond the relation substance dualism of Western heritage This is valuable reading for scholars interested in the theory and history of anthropology Contemporary Asian American Communities Linda Trinh Võ, Rick Bonus, 2009 Once thought of in terms of geographically bounded spaces Asian America has undergone profound changes as a result of post 1965 immigration as well as the growth and reshaping of established communities This collection of original essays demonstrates that conventional notions of community of ethnic enclaves determined by exclusion and ghettoization now have limited use in explaining the dynamic processes of contemporary community formation Writing from a variety of perspectives these contributors expand the concept of community to include sites not necessarily bounded by space formations around gender class sexuality and generation reveal new processes as well as the demographic diversity of today s Asian American population The case studies gathered here speak to the fluidity of these communities and to the need for new analytic approaches to account for the similarities and differences between them Taken together these essays forcefully argue that it is time to replace the outworn concept of a monolithic Asian America History of California ,
