Satire That Blasted Art:

Satire--that Blasted Art John R. Clark, Anna Lydia Motto, 1973 The Modern Satiric Grotesque and Its Traditions John R. Clark, 2021-05-11 Thomas Mann predicted that no manner or mode in literature would be so typical or so pervasive in the twentieth century as the grotesque. Assuredly he was correct. The subjects and methods of our comic literature and much of our other literature are regularly disturbing and often repulsive no laughing matter. In this ambitious study John R. Clark seeks to elucidate the major tactics and topics deployed in modern literary dark humor. In Part I he explores the satiric strategies of authors of the grotesque strategies that undercut conventional usage and form the de basement of heroes the denigration of language and style the disruption of normative narrative technique and even the debunking of authors themselves. Part II surveys major recurrent themes of grotesquerie tedium scatology cannibalism dystopia and Armageddon or the end of the world. Clearly the literature of the grotesque is obtrusive and ugly its effect morbid and disquieting and deliberately meant to be so. Grotesque literature may be unpleasant but it is patently insightful. Indeed as Clark shows all of the strategies and topics employed by this literature stem from age old and spirited traditions. Critics have complained about this grim satiric literature asserting that it is dank cheerless unsavory and negative. But such an interpretation is far too simplistic. On the contrary as Clark demonstrates such grotesque writing in its power and its prevalence in the past and present is in fact conventional controlled imaginative and vigorous no mean achievements for any body of art. A Theory of Parody Linda Hutcheon, 2023-11-21 In this major study of a flexible and multifaceted mode of expression Linda Hutcheon looks at works of modern literature visual art music film theater and architecture to arrive at a comprehensive assessment of what parody is and what it does. Hutcheon identifies parody as one of the major forms of modern self reflexivity one that marks the intersection of invention and critique and offers an important mode of coming to terms with the texts and discourses of the past. Looking at works as diverse as Tom Stoppard's Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead Brian de Palma's Dressed to Kill Woody Allen's Zelig Karlheinz Stockhausen's Hymnen James Joyce's Ulysses and Magritte's This Is Not a Pipe Hutcheon discusses the remarkable range of intent in modern parody while distinguishing it from pastiche burlesque travesty and satire. She shows how parody through ironic playing with multiple conventions combines creative expression with critical commentary. Its productive creative approach to tradition results in a modern recoding that establishes difference at the heart of similarity. In a new introduction Hutcheon discusses why parody continues to fascinate her and why it is commonly viewed as suspect for being either too ideologically shifty or too much of a threat to the ownership of intellectual and creative property. The Power of the Word Patsy J.
