Bennett, 2007-06-14 Intellectuals and policy analysts might appear to inhabit two different worlds Intellectuals aspire to articulate issues of universal concern policy analysts attend to the detail of specific measures and programmes How far do these common assumptions match up to reality What happens when intellectuals engage with cultural institutions and the machinery of government And how far is cultural policy connected to a history of ideas The essays brought together here attempt to answer these questions From the English Romantics to Lenin's wife from Plato to Herbert Schiller this book offers new insights into how intellectuals from Europe Canada and North America have sought over time to assert their cultural values in public life Media Capitalism Thomas Klikauer, 2022-01-01 This book argues that media and capitalism no longer exist as separated entities and posits three reasons why one can no longer exist without the other Firstly mass media have become indispensable to capitalism due to the media's ability to sell the commodities of mass consumerism Media capitalism also creates pro capital attitudes among a target population and establishes an ideological hegemony Thirdly media capitalism provides mass deception to hide the pathologies of capitalism which include mass poverty rising inequalities and the acceleration of global warming To illuminate this the book's historical chapter traces the emergence of media capitalism Its subsequent chapters show how media capitalism has infiltrated the public sphere society schools universities the world of work and finally democracy The book concludes by outlining how societies can transition from media capitalism to a post media capitalist society Fake News vs Media Studies Julian McDougall, 2019-12-01 This book explores the place of Media Studies in the age of fake news analysing the calls for a curriculum of critical news literacy as part of a cyclical policy debate With the need for young people in democracies to understand mainstream news agendas and take a critical perspective on social media news including so called fake news this book argues for Media Studies as a mandatory subject However fake news is not presented in the book as a stable neutral term with a clear definition but is instead defined as an idea that risks obscuring the key critical and political premise of Media Studies All media representation requires critical deconstruction therefore any distinction between real and fake media is a false binary The author draws together two narrative strands one analysing contemporary news and journalism featuring interviews with journalists and news commentators and the other re appraising the discipline of Media Studies itself This bold and innovative book will appeal to all those interested in the nebulous and often confusing media landscape as well as students and practitioners of Media Studies
