Hemispheric Indigeneities Miléna Santoro, Erick D. Langer, 2018-11 Hemispheric Indigeneities is a critical anthology that brings together indigenous and nonindigenous scholars specializing in the Andes Mesoamerica and Canada The overarching theme is the changing understanding of indigeneity from first contact to the contemporary period in three of the world's major regions of indigenous peoples Although the terms indio indig ne and indian only exist in Spanish French and English respectively because of European conquest and colonization indigenous peoples have appropriated or changed this terminology in ways that reflect their shifting self identifications and aspirations As the essays in this volume demonstrate this process constantly transformed the relation of Native peoples in the Americas to other peoples and the state This volume s presentation of various factors geographical temporal and cross cultural provide illuminating contributions to the burgeoning field of hemispheric indigenous studies Hemispheric Indigeneities explores indigenous agency and shows that what it means to be indigenous was and is mutable It also demonstrates that self identification evolves in response to the relationship between indigenous peoples and the state The contributors analyze the conceptions of what indigeneity meant means today or could come to mean tomorrow

French Canadians, Furs, and Indigenous Women in the Making of the Pacific Northwest Jean Barman, 2015-02-25 Jean Barman was the recipient of the 2014 George Woodcock Lifetime Achievement Award. In French Canadians, Furs, and Indigenous Women in the Making of the Pacific Northwest, Jean Barman rewrites the history of the Pacific Northwest from the perspective of French Canadians attracted by the fur economy, the indigenous women whose presence in their lives encouraged them to stay, and their descendants joined in this distant setting by Quebec paternal origins, the French language, and Catholicism. French Canadians comprised Canadiens from Quebec, Iroquois from the Montreal area, and Métis combining Canadian and indigenous descent. For half a century, French Canadians were the largest group of newcomers to this region, extending from Oregon and Washington east into Montana and north through British Columbia. Here they facilitated the early overland crossings, drove the fur economy, initiated non-wholly indigenous agricultural settlement, eased relations with indigenous peoples, and ensured that when the region was divided in 1846, the northern half would go to Britain, giving today's Canada its Pacific shoreline. Listening to the Fur Trade Daniel Robert Laxer, 2022-04-05 As fur traders were driven across northern North America by economic motivations, the landscape over which they plied their trade was punctuated by sound: shouting, singing, dancing, gunpowder, rattles, jingles, drums, fiddles, and very occasionally bagpipes. Fur trade interactions were in a word noisy. Daniel Laxer unearths traces of music performance and other intangible cultural phenomena long since silenced, allowing us to hear the fur trade for the first time. Listening to the Fur Trade uses the written record, oral history, and material culture to reveal histories of sound and music in an era before sound recording. The trading post was a noisy nexus populated by a polyglot crowd of highly mobile people from different national, linguistic, religious, cultural, and class backgrounds. They found ways to interact every time they met, and facilitating material interests and survival went beyond the simple exchange of goods. Trust and good relations often entailed gift giving; reciprocity was performed with dances, songs, and firearm salutes. Indigenous protocols of ceremony and treaty making were widely adopted by fur traders who supplied materials and technologies that sometimes changed how these ceremonies sounded. Within trading companies, masters and servants were on opposite ends of the social ladder but shared songs in the canoes and lively dances during the long winters at the trading posts. While the fur trade was propelled by economic and political interests, Listening to the Fur Trade uncovers the songs and ceremonies of

First Nations people the paddling songs of the voyageurs and the fiddle music and step dancing at the trading posts that provided its pulse Montana Americana Music Aaron Parrett,2016-07-25 Montana s relationship to Americana music is as wide and deep as the famed Missouri River that inspired countless musicians seated at its shores From the fiddling of Pierre Cruzatte and George Gibson in the Corps of Discovery to the modern day loner folk of Joey Running Crane and Cameron Boster the Treasure State inspires the production of top notch country music In the 1950s bands like the Snake River Outlaws fostered a long standing love of hillbilly honky tonk and in the 1970s the Mission Mountain Wood Band added a homegrown flavor of its own Contemporary acts like the Lil Smokies and songwriter Martha Scanlan promise a vibrant future for the local sound Author and musician Aaron Parrett explores this history to show what it means to boot stomp in Big Sky Country Trans/American, Trans/Oceanic, Trans/lation Susana Araújo,João Ferreira Duarte,Marta Pacheco

Challenging Colonial Narratives Matthew A. Beaudoin, 2019-04-30

Challenging Colonial Narratives demonstrates that the traditional colonial dichotomy may reflect an artifice of the colonial discourse rather than the lived reality of the past. Matthew A. Beaudoin makes a striking case that comparative research can unsettle many deeply held assumptions and offer a rapprochement of the conventional scholarly separation of colonial and historical archaeology. To create a conceptual bridge between disparate dialogues, Beaudoin examines multigenerational nineteenth-century Mohawk and settler sites in southern Ontario, Canada. He demonstrates that few obvious differences exist and calls for more nuanced interpretive frameworks. Using conventional categories, methodologies, and interpretative processes from Indigenous and settler archaeologies, Beaudoin encourages archaeologists and scholars to focus on the different or similar aspects among sites to better understand the nineteenth-century life of contemporaneous Indigenous and settler peoples. Beaudoin posits that the archaeological record represents people's navigation through the social and political constraints of their time. Their actions, he maintains, were undertaken within the understood present, the remembered past, and perceived future possibilities. Deconstructing existing paradigms in colonial and postcolonial theories, Matthew A. Beaudoin establishes a new dynamic discourse on identity formation and politics within the power relations created by colonization that will be useful to archaeologists in the academy as well as in cultural resource management.
