Mom Rebecca Jo Plant, 2010-03-15 In the early twentieth century Americans often waxed lyrical about Mother Love signaling a conception of motherhood as an all encompassing identity rooted in self sacrifice and infused with social and political meaning By the 1940s the idealization of motherhood had waned and the nation's mothers found themselves blamed for a host of societal and psychological ills In Mom Rebecca Jo Plant traces this important shift by exploring the evolution of maternalist politics changing perceptions of the mother child bond and the rise of new approaches to childbirth pain and suffering Plant argues that the assault on sentimental motherhood came from numerous quarters Male critics who railed against female moral authority psychological experts who hoped to expand their influence and women who strove to be more than wives and mothers all for their own distinct reasons sought to discredit the longstanding maternal ideal By showing how motherhood ultimately came to be redefined as a more private and partial component of female identity Plant illuminates a major reorientation in American civic social and familial life that still reverberates today

Alternately funny, entertaining, and heartbreaking, The Swan is a fictional memoir about love, death, and what a family can and cannot endure. Publishers Weekly, Indianapolis, 1957. Ten-year-old Aaron Cooper has witnessed the death of his younger sister Pookie, and the trauma has left him unwilling to speak. Aaron copes with life's challenges by disappearing into his own imagination, envisioning being captain of the Kon-Tiki, driving his sled in the snowy Klondike, and tiger hunting in India. He is guarded by secret friends like the deposed Hungarian Count Blurtz, Shemshoian, and Blurtz's wonder dog Nipper, who protect him from the Creature from the Black Lagoon, who hides in Aaron's closet at night. The tales he constructs for himself, the real-life stories he is witness to, and his mother's desperate efforts to bring her son back from the brink, all come to a head at an emotional family dinner. Funny, poignant, and as endearing as its central character, The Swan is a wholly original tribute to childhood resilience. San Jose Mercury News. Had Kurt Vonnegut, William Saroyan, J.D. Salinger, Carlos Castaneda, Raymond Carver, and James Thurber ever gathered at a writer's workshop to co-author a short novel, the product might well have been The Swan. Terre Haute Tribune Star. A surreal study of a grief observed indirectly, The Swan serves as a testament to the unbridled power of childhood vision, even and especially in the wake of tragedy. Bloom magazine. Rich and Famous John Guare, 1977-10. THE STORY. One of the world's oldest living promising young playwrights, Bing Ringling, is finally about to be produced with play number 844. fieldwork has taken her to the devastated worlds of her parents to Korea and to the Korean language allowing her as she explains to find and found kinship relationships that had been suppressed or broken in war and illness A fascinating counterpoint to the project of testimony that seeks to transmit a narrative of the event to future generations Seeing Like a Child sees the inheritance of familial memories of violence as embedded in how the child inhabits her everyday life Seeing Like a Child offers readers a unique experience an intimate engagement with the emotional reality of migration and the inheritance of mass displacement and death inviting us to explore categories such as catastrophe war violence and kinship in a brand new light An extraordinary book bursting with critical insight and affective power Jo o Biehl author of Vita Life in a Zone of Social Abandonment
