New Historians Of The Twelfth Century Renaissance Authorising History In The Vernacular Revolution:

The New Historians of the Twelfth-century Renaissance Peter Damian-Grint, 1999 Examination of the striking new style of writing history in the twelfth century by men such as Gaimar Wace and Ambroise The mid twelfth century saw the sudden appearance of a remarkable group of writers the new historians authors such as Geffrei Gaimar Beno t de Sainte Maure Wace Jordan Fantosme and Ambroise who were the earliest historical writers to use French Each had his own style and authorial persona yet together despite their considerable differences they pioneered a common form of historical writing which is quite distinct from the styles of previous vernacular writers This book studies some of the more characteristic elements of the common style used by the vernacular historians Their detached and self conscious authorial presentation is particularly notable it is seen both in the prologues and epilogues to their works where they present their source materials as reliable themselves as serious scholars and their works as worthy of belief and constantly throughout the text as the historians direct audience response to their work The author shows how this historical style fits into both the vernacular and the Latin literature current in the period the vernacular historians borrowed elements from both the learned and the popular traditions to produce their own successful and vigorous hybrid one which was still producing new shoots as late as the fifteenth century and which was widely copied and imitated by both writers of courtly romance and by writers of prose history Dr PETER DAMIAN GRINT teaches at Brasenose College Oxford

The Oxford History of Historical Writing Sarah Foot, Chase F. Robinson, 2012-10-25 How was history written in Europe and Asia between 400 1400 How was the past understood in religious social and political terms And in what ways does the diversity of historical writing in this period mask underlying commonalities in narrating the past The volume which assembles 28 contributions from leading historians tackles these and other questions Part I provides comprehensive overviews of the development of historical writing in societies that range from the Korean Peninsula to north west Europe which together highlight regional and cultural distinctiveness Part II complements the first part by taking a thematic and comparative approach it includes essays on genre warfare and religion amongst others which address common concerns of historians working in this liminal period before the globalizing forces of the early modern world

Violence and the Writing of History in the Medieval Francophone World Noah D. Guynn, Zrinka Stahuljak, 2013 An examination of medieval historical writings through the prism of violence The concept of medieval historiography as usable past is here challenged and reassessed The contributors shared claim is that the value of medieval historiographical texts lies not only in the factual information the texts contain but also in the methods and styles they use to represent and interpret the past and make it ideologically productive Violence is used as the key term that best demonstrates the making of historical meaning in the Middle Ages through the transformation of acts of physical aggression and destruction into a memorable and usable past The twelve chapters assembled here explore a wide range of texts emanating from throughout the francophone world They cover a range of genres chansons de geste histories chronicles travel writing and lyric poetry and range from the late eleventh to the fifteenth century Through examination of topics as varied as rhetoric imagery humor gender sexuality trauma subversion and community formation each chapter strives to demonstrate how knowledge of the medieval past can be enhanced by approaching medieval modes of historical representation and consciousness on their own terms and by acknowledging and resisting the desire to subject them to modern conceptions of historical intelligibility Noah D Guynn is Associate Professor of French at the University of California Davis Zrinka Stahuljak is Associate Professor of French and Comparative Literature at the University of California Los Angeles Contributors Noah D Guynn Zrinka Stahuljak James Andrew Cowell Jeff Rider Leah Shopkow Matthew Fisher Karen Sullivan David Rollo Deborah McGrady Rosalind Brown Grant Simon Gaunt

Imagining Vernacular Histories Mobolanle Ebunoluwa Sotunsa, Abikal Borah, 2020-08-17 Imagining Vernacular Histories is centered on the idea of engaging with indigenous African cosmologies that signal at pluriversality In conversation with Toyin Falola's reading of the African pluriverse and his exploration of the idea of ritual archives the contributors to this volume rethink the historical archive in search of vernacular histories Simultaneously they recognize the contributions from various other disciplines in pluralizing the term vernacular The book brings together a wide range of topics such as reflections on African historiography the relationship between memory history and literature gender relations and the construction of historical archives While appropriating Falola's conception of vernacular histories the contributors collectively argue that pluriversality and ritual archives can potentially rescue African historical and creative scholarship from the sustained practices of epistemicide Simultaneously Imagining Vernacular Histories focuses on the emerging interdisciplinary conversations on constructing the pluriverse as well as on the geopolitics of knowledge production Through a critical appreciation of Falola's engagement with the ideas of postcoloniality decolonizing epistemologies and pluriversality this book locates his scholarship in relation to postcolonial theory emerging from the Global South

Balaam's Ass: Vernacular Theology Before the English Reformation Nicholas Watson, 2022-06-21 For over seven hundred years bodies of writing in vernacular languages served an indispensable role in the religious and intellectual culture of medieval Christian England yet the character and extent of their importance have been insufficiently recognized A longstanding identification of medieval western European Christianity with the Latin language and a lack of awareness about the sheer variety and quantity of vernacular religious writing from the English Middle Ages have hampered our understanding of the period exercising a tenacious hold on much scholarship Bringing together work across a range of disciplines including literary study Christian theology social history and the history of institutions Balaam's Ass attempts the first comprehensive overview of religious writing in early England's three most important vernacular languages Old English Insular French and Middle English between the ninth and sixteenth centuries Nicholas Watson argues not only that these texts comprise the oldest continuous tradition of European vernacular writing but that they are essential to our understanding of how Christianity shaped and informed the lives of individuals communities and polities in the Middle Ages

This first of three volumes lays out the long post Reformation history of the false claim that the medieval Catholic Church was hostile to the vernacular. It analyzes the complicated idea of the vernacular as a medieval innovation instantiated in a huge body of surviving vernacular religious texts. Finally it focuses on the first long generation of these writings in Old English and early Middle English.

Authority and Gender in Medieval and Renaissance Chronicles Juliana Dresvina, Nicholas

Sparks, 2012-12-18 This volume is an attempt to discuss the ways in which themes of authority and gender can be traced in the writing of chronicles and chronicle-like writings from the early Middle Ages to the Renaissance. With major contributions by fourteen authors, each of them specialists in the field, this study spans full across the compass of medieval and early modern Europe from England and Scandinavia to Byzantium and the Crusader Kingdoms. It embraces a variety of media and methods and touches evidence from diverse branches of learning such as language and literature history and art to name just a few. This is an important collection which will be of the highest utility for students and scholars of language, literature and history for many years to come.

The History of the Holy War Ambroise, 2003 Edition and English translation of eye witness account of Third Crusade with emphasis on Richard the Lionheart. The Estoire de la Guerre Sainte an early example of vernacular chronicle by the Norman poet Ambroise presents an eye witness account of the Third Crusade 1188-92 in a highly polished rhetorical style. Central is the character of Richard the Lionheart. Ambroise's hero but the narrative is also enlivened by short anecdotes, sometimes heroic and sometimes more down to earth about other participants. It depicts clearly the privations and sufferings of the ordinary crusaders whether at the siege of Acre or on the march and provides both a detailed record of events and a personal perspective on the Islamic warriors and their leaders in particular Saladin and Saphadin. Ambroise also shows remarkable knowledge of contemporary weapons of war such as siege engines and types of ship. This, the first new edition of the Estoire since 1897, offers text and prose translation into English. Detailed notes identify most of the participants and clarify literary, biblical and historical allusions while the introduction looks at historical, literary and philological aspects of the poem and assesses its significance as literary artefact and historical record, setting it in context and bringing forward new evidence about the identity of the poet.

The Beginnings of Medieval Romance Dennis Howard Green, 2002-06-27 Publisher Description

War and Memory at the Time of the Fifth Crusade Megan Cassidy-Welch, 2019-07-01 In this book Megan Cassidy-Welch challenges the notion that using memories of war to articulate and communicate collective identity is exclusively a modern phenomenon. War and Memory at the Time of the Fifth Crusade explores how and why remembering war came to be culturally meaningful during the early thirteenth century. By the 1200s discourses of crusading were deeply steeped in the language of memory; crusaders understood themselves to be acting in remembrance of Christ's sacrifice and following in the footsteps of their ancestors. At the same time the foundational narratives of the First Crusade began to be transformed by vernacular histories and the advent of crusading romance Examining how the Fifth Crusade was remembered and commemorated during its triumphs and immediately after its disastrous conclusion Cassidy Welch brings a nuanced perspective to the prevailing historiography on war memory showing that remembering war was significant and meaningful centuries before the advent of the nation state This thoughtful and novel study of the Fifth Crusade shows it to be a key moment in the history of remembering war and provides new insights into medieval communication It will be invaluable reading for scholars interested in the Fifth Crusade medieval war memory and the use of war memory The Fortunes of King Arthur Norris J. Lacy, 2005 Offer an overview and a number of examinations of Arthur s fortunes This work reveals the role of Fortune itself often personified and consistently instrumental in accounts of Arthur s court and reign It traces the trajectory of the Arthurian legend and follows the turning of Fortune s wheel emphasizing the flourishing of the legend

Authorities in the Middle Ages Sini Kangas, Mia Korpiola, Tuija Ainonen, 2013-04-30 Medievalists reading and writing about and around authority related themes lack clear definitions of its actual meanings in the medieval context Authorities in the Middle Ages offers answers to this thorny issue through specialized investigations This book considers the concept of authority and explores the various practices of creating authority in medieval society In their studies sixteen scholars investigate the definition formation establishment maintenance and collapse of what we understand in terms of medieval struggles for authority influence and power The interdisciplinary nature of this volume resonates with the multi faceted field of medieval culture its social structures and forms of communication The fields of expertise include history legal studies theology philosophy politics literature and art history The scope of inquiry extends from late antiquity to the mid fifteenth century from the Church Fathers debating with pagans to the rapacious ghosts ruining the life of the living in the Sagas There is a special emphasis on such exciting but understudied areas as the Balkans Iceland and the eastern fringes of Scandinavia American Book Publishing Record , 1999 Образы войны в исторических представлениях
