Therapeutic Community for Women Prisoners Elaine Player,Elaine Genders,2025-09-02 Based upon an extensive empirical study of a democratic therapeutic community for women serving long and medium sentences this book explores the opportunities it provided for restorative rehabilitation In so doing it identifies some of the interconnected ways in which these ambitions are undermined by pervasive yet often tacit assumptions that underly penal policies and practices Drawing on a wealth of data gathered from a study spanning a period of eighteen years at the only democratic therapeutic community for women prisoners in the UK the book highlights how feminist criminology has revealed an invidious history of women s treatment in prison demonstrating how reformist and rehabilitative interventions have reproduced and exacerbated existing states of inequality and oppression Consequently the question explored in this book is whether a proportionate sentence that imposes a loss of liberty is inevitably destined to this fate or whether it can be constructed in ways that are progressive and transformative By identifying and understanding some of the interconnected ways in which progressive efforts have typically been undermined it opens a debate about the insinuation of certain often unspoken assumptions that underly penal policies and practices and the need for their deconstruction It opens an axiomatic debate about how women imprisoned for serious offences might have that loss of liberty interpreted to facilitate a restorative reparative and reintegrative process of rehabilitation informed by principles of social justice This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of criminology feminist studies public policy and human rights It will also be of value to policymakers and practitioners in women s prisons and psychologists and psychiatrists interested in therapeutic communities

Is irrigation fit for purpose? A review of the relationships between scheme size and performance of irrigation systems McCarthy, Nancy, Ringler, Claudia, Agbonlahor, Mure Uhunamure, Pandya, A. B., Iyob, Biniam, Perez, Nicostrato, 2023-04-18 Irrigation is increasingly being called upon to help stabilize and grow food and water security in the face of multiple crises these crises include climate change but also recent global food and energy price crises including the 2007 08 food and energy price crises and the more recent crises triggered by the COVID 19 pandemic and the war on Ukraine While irrigation development used to focus on public large scale surface and reservoir fed systems over the last several decades private small scale investments in groundwater irrigation have grown in importance and are expected to see rapid future growth particularly in connection with solar powered pumping systems But is irrigation fit for purpose to support population growth economic development and multiple food energy and climate crises This paper reviews how fit for purpose irrigation is with a focus on economies of scale of surface and groundwater systems and a particular examination of systems in Sub Saharan Africa where the need for expansion is largest The review finds challenges for both larger surface and smaller groundwater systems in the face of growing demand for irrigated agriculture and dwindling and less reliable water supplies To support resilience of the sector we propose both a holistic design and management improvement agenda for larger surface systems and a series of suggestions to improve sustainability concerns of groundwater systems
