Rafting The Brazos:

Rafting the Brazos Walter McDonald, 1988 Learning the Story of Scars After the axe head buried itself in his ankle my father clung to the log he was splitting squeezing his eyes like fists Twelve he logged those woods for years with his father Arkansas the great depression doing whatever they could Groaning he jerked and jerked the axe like a pump handle he screamed and went on pumping until the foot fell back hinged by the ankle white and spurting With a bandana he held it and held it while Arkansas flooded and saw his father running his own axe raised ready to kill whatever snake slashed the heel of his son I learned that scar like a tree split by lightning healed over knew my father had in him a boy who had suffered alone in a forest McDonald's evocation of nature and farming is impressively simple but suggests mystery and depth Publisher's Weekly McDonald draws upon his personal vision of West Texas offering a strong and sensitive image of the land its people its sense of space and struggle Books of the Southwest We are privy to a consciousness that encompasses Texas from the Gulf to the Caprock from oxen slow days to jet lag Rafting the Brazos makes us wish the poet could do nothing but chronicle the spirals of West Texas hawks Dallas Morning News West Texas the land and its people provide both the subject and the soul of McDonald's powerful poetry Writers at Work The Waltz He was Born for Andrew Hudgins, Janice Whittington, 2002 Texas Poet Laureate Walt McDonald has published more than eighteen volumes of poetry A poet of the landscape of war and flying of people just working hard McDonald is master of the vital image and sound And his work invites others to define the elements that delight and fascinate Each contributor herein has made his own trek to McDonald's harsh landscapes of arroyos and hardscrabble his skies filled with joy and terrors those night sweats of pilots Here in the territory Walt McDonald has claimed these writers have found gold Book jacket Laws of the United States Relating to the Improvement of Rivers and Harbors from August 11, 1790, to March 4, 1913 United States, 1913 Laws of the United States Relating to the Improvement of Rivers and Harbors United States, 1907 American Lumberman, 1904 Annual Reports of the War Department United States. Foster, 2010-01-01 Based on official Spanish expedition diaries a fascinating account of the daily routes taken and the Indigenous tribes terrain and wildlife encountered Mapping old trails has a romantic allure at least as great as the difficulty involved in doing it In this book William Foster produces the first highly accurate maps of the eleven Spanish expeditions from northeastern Mexico into what is now East Texas during the years 1689 to 1768 Foster draws upon the detailed diaries that each expedition kept of its route cross checking the journals among themselves and against previously unused eighteenth century Spanish maps modern detailed topographic maps aerial photographs and on site inspections From these sources emerges a clear picture of where the Spanish explorers actually passed through Texas This information which corrects many previous misinterpretations will be widely valuable Old names of rivers and landforms will be of interest to geographers Anthropologists and archaeologists will find new information on encounters with some 139 named Indigenous tribes Botanists and zoologists will see changes in the distribution of flora and fauna with increasing European habitation and climatologists will learn more about the Little Ice Age along the Rio Grande Foster offers readers as accurate an estimate as could ever be hoped for for the eleven routes as whole The Journal of American History Foster does an excellent job sorting out his predecessors fallacious interpretations of the significance and location of certain routes Colonial Latin American Historical Review To have a single authoritative source of these early expeditions is enormously useful Foster s work is the most authoritative on the subject David J Weber Southern Methodist University
