Mudie's Circulating Library The Victorians:

Mudie's Circulating Library and the Victorian Novel Guinevere L. Griest, 1970 From 1842 when Charles Edward Mudie started lending books at his shop in Bloomsbury until 1894 when the Library Establishment destroyed the three-decker fiction maintained a recognized supremacy in the English world of letters Between 1845 and 1870 when the potential earning power of the novel developed enormously when literary critics saw the novel as the nineteenth-century replacement for the epic and even the drama when interest in fiction was sharpened by careful and copious criticism when the novelist was demanding the right to be judged as a serious critic of life Mudie's contributed essential elements by providing a central distributing agency and by the development of a cohesive body of readers The circulating library had a significant influence on the Victorian literary milieu and by championing the three-decker on the construction of novels themselves For the student of the Victorian era the institution that was Mudie's left a lasting imprint on authors publishers and the reading public which this volume explores within the context of Victorian literary tastes and values

Athenaeum ,1863 The Concise Cambridge History of English Literature George Sampson,1943 Naturalist Fiction David Baguley,1990 This is the first major study of naturalist fiction as a distinct literary genre It focuses mainly on French naturalist literature analysing a number of key works in detail but also draws examples from other national traditions particularly from the English novel Professor Baguley questions and revises many traditional assumptions on important theoretical issues such as the nature of literary history the concepts of realism and naturalism and the relations between science and literature He demonstrates the prevalence of certain recurrent generic patterns themes and techniques in the general body of naturalist literature ranging from disquieting tragic developments to the most outrageous ironic and parodic effects He argues persuasively that far from being a mere record of the external aspects of reality naturalist fiction is a literature of scandalous provocation which employs the strategies of realist art to convey a profoundly disturbing vision of that reality The English Stage Augustin Filon,1897 The Haunted Study P. J. Keating,2012-10-04 The Haunted Study a rare example of a work of literary history that is genuinely interdisciplinary explores how the leading novelists of the late Victorian and Edwardian periods came to develop so many of the attitudes that are now generally accepted as characteristically modern The writing of fiction is not treated as though it exists in some kind of isolation but is shown to be intimately related to other forms of social activity Conrad James Meredith and their immediate modernist successors Joyce Lawrence and Woolf may now seem to be set apart in a variety of crucial ways from say Ouida and Marie Corelli or even Gissing Wells and Bennett but all of them worked within the same rapidly changing society and were unavoidably influenced by its dominant economic political and cultural concerns These influences were not peripheral but central and formative They profoundly affected the creation of a commercially fragmented culture as well as the nature of fiction within that culture The Haunted Study covers an exceptionally large number of authors from the critically despised to the critically admired and examines the impact on their work of such factors as the professionalisation of literature the earning power of authors the emergence of new kinds of readers and disturbingly present throughout the whole period fundamental democratic change
