Nuclear Debate Deterrence And The Lapse Of Faith Lehrman Institute:

The Nuclear Debate Robert W. Tucker, 1985 Om den nukleare afskrækkelser dalende troværdighed og med forfatterens diskussion af mulige alternativer her f.eks. konventionelle styrker politiske forhandlingsmuligheder nedrustning og våbenkontrol

National Security and International Relations (Routledge Revivals) Peter Mangold, 2013-10-14 First published in 1990 National Security and International Relations provides a concise analysis of the problem of national security in the twentieth century. It examines the criteria by which states decide what level of security they want to seek in an uncertain and essentially Hobbesian world and why some states tend to underinsure while obsessively insecure states overinsure frequently making others more insecure in the process. In the wake of two world wars and the threat of nuclear destruction Peter Mangold argues that war was becoming as much a source of insecurity as the intentions of other states. It then explores the different approaches attempted during the twentieth century to ameliorate or ideally escape from the security dilemma. These range from international regimes to the restructuring of the international politics of Western Europe so as to substitute cooperation for conflict and U.S. and Soviet attempts to render nuclear competition safer through arms control and confidence building measures. Of special value to students of International Relations and Strategic Studies this book will also interest those keen to understand the challenges embodied in Gorbachev's new thinking in foreign policy. The Nuclear

Tucker, 1985 Om den nukleare afskrækkelser dalende troværdighed og med forfatterens diskussion af mulige alternativer her f.eks. konventionelle styrker politiske forhandlingsmuligheder nedrustning og våbenkontrol In the National Interest Benjamin Frankel, 1990 This reader contains a sample of the best essays published in the foreign policy quarterly The National Interest during its first four years. The period covered by this volume was a critical one for American foreign policy. It represented a recovery of confidence after the uncertainty and self-laceration of the 1960s and 1970s. But it was also a period when dramatic events in the communist world raised fundamental questions about the ending of the Cold War and about prevailing American foreign policy. The essays in this volume examine the basic and enduring questions of international politics and the national security of the United States. These and related issues are discussed in the reader by leading American policymakers, academics and commentators. Co-published with The National Interest Revisions in Need of Revising: What Went Wrong in the Iraq War, 2005 David C. Hendrickson and Robert W. Tucker examine the contentious debate over the Iraq war and occupation focusing on the critique that the Bush administration squandered an historic opportunity to reconstruct the Iraqi state because of various critical blunders in planning. Though they conclude that critics have made a number of telling points against the Bush administration's conduct of the Iraq war they argue that the most serious problems facing Iraq and its American occupiers criminal anarchy and lawlessness a raging insurgency and a society divided into rival and antagonistic groups were virtually inevitable consequences that flowed from the act of war itself. Military and civilian planners were culpable in failing to plan for certain tasks but the most serious problems had no good solution The authors draw attention to a variety of lessons including the danger that the imperatives of force protection may sacrifice the broader political mission of U S forces and the need for skepticism over the capacity of outsiders to develop the skill and expertise required to reconstruct decapitated states      Revisions in Need of Revising David C. The New Nuclear Debate Robert A. Gessert, J. Bryan Hehir, 1976

Abolition of Nuclear Weapons as a Moral Imperative John H. Kultgen, 2015

Abolition of Nuclear Weapons as a Moral Imperative argues that the use of nuclear weapons as a threat in policies of nuclear deterrence violate basic principles of morality and consequently the abolition of nuclear weapons from the world is a moral imperative nations that have them The focus is on the United States since it will have to take the lead in any program of abolition The argument is formulated in terms accessible to theorists in different disciplines and activists in a large range of causes It appeals to principles that are widely shared but whose application to national policies especially to deterrence by threats of mass destruction has been debated ever since nuclear weapons were developed The book explains what is meant by the immorality of a national policy the stake which citizens have in their agents acting morally and the role of their opinions in seeing that they do The argument of the book is couched in terms of consequences The effects of the U S s nuclear deterrent on the probability of nuclear war are difficult to calculate but the harms for the country and others across the globe caused by the immense apparatus necessary to make U S threats credible are sufficient to condemn the policy The last part of the book is devoted to way the U S can take the lead in safe and effective steps necessary to abolish the weapons and prevent their reintroduction into the world
