Alternative Conventional Defense Postures In The European Theater Hans G. Brauch, Robert F. Jr. Kennedy, 2018-10-24 First published in 1993 This volume edited jointly by the American strategic expert Robert Kennedy and the German peace researcher Hans Giinter Brauch takes up conceptual ideas developed by Horst Afheldt and Carl Friedrich von Weizsacker as well as others on both sides of the Atlantic since the 1960s Our aim has been to contribute to the development of concepts that would reduce the danger of a third world war by the creation of more stable structures in the context of a defensively oriented conventional defense posture In this volume a variety of alternative approaches to European conventional defense driven for the most part by similar strategic considerations are presented by German and American experts to a larger international audience

Between Scylla and Charybdis Carl William Dossel, 1985 This thesis which examines the issue of nuclear weapons in Europe is divided into two major parts The first traces the history of nuclear weapons and doctrine associated with NATO and the Warsaw Pact from 1945 through 1985 Drawing on this historical perspective the second part critically examines current conventional and nuclear force structure and doctrine Briefly it concludes that NATO's approach to nuclear force structure and doctrine might be charitably labeled ad hoc In view of present and projected Warsaw Pact conventional and nuclear capabilities the credibility of flexible response suffers accordingly To remedy this situation a series of recommendations are made the gist of which are adoption of a mobile conventional defense removal of battlefield nuclear weapons from Europe and the enhancement of the survivability of theater strategic systems while seeking the ultimate elimination of theater nuclear weapons on both sides through arms control talks Keywords Theater Nuclear Weapons TNW Theater Nuclear Forces TNF Intermediate Range Nuclear Forces INF

The Control of NATO Nuclear Forces in Europe During the Cold War Marco Carnovale, 2018-12-09 This book examines the development of command and control systems for nuclear weapons in NATO Europe during the Cold War This is a reprint of his book originally published in 1993 The United States and Europe had for a long time stressed different aspects of their common concern for the control of nuclear forces The US mostly feared a failure of negative control ie the possibility of accidental or inadvertent use The Europeans shared this concern but emphasized the need for reliable positive control of the deterrent ie the assurance that it would function as planned in an emergency Unsurprisingly American views prevailed and moved the UK and France to develop their own national deterrent Written at the end of the cold war this book argued for the creation of a European deterrent integrated with NATO on the basis of the French and UK forces Since then these two countries have repeatedly discussed this issue and that is why twenty five years after it was written the conclusions of this book are still relevant for current policy Renewed US unilateralism after the election of president Trump reinforces the notion that in the nuclear weapons domain as in others the Europeans should take more responsibility The author holds a PhD in Defense Studies from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is a retired member of the international staff at NATO Headquarters The Control Of Nato Nuclear Forces In Europe Marco Carnovale,1993-02-17 In this study the author examines the development of command and control systems for nuclear weapons in NATO Europe and finds them to be flawed The author proposes to modify the current arrangements by enhancing Europe s role while simultaneously reducing NATO s nuclear arsenal Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals ,1981 Current Policy United States. The United States And The Ussr In A Changing World Andrei Bochkarev,Don L Mansfield,2019-07-11 As the Cold War draws to a close new issues inevitably have begun to surface in U S Soviet relations This reader brings together Soviet and U S perspectives on the broad range of challenges that both nations now face Within the context of a debate format that presents parallel U S and Soviet views these timely readings illustrate areas of cooperation and conflict and weigh policy similarities and differences Topics covered include Soviet U S relations after the Cold War military and national security debates and the changing international economic environment The selections also consider the impact that the evolving Soviet U S interaction is having on the new Europe and the developing world The volume concludes by considering the direction the superpower relationship may take in the future Students of Soviet and U S foreign policy will find this text invaluable in unraveling the complexities of U S Soviet relations The Crisis of Détente in Europe Leopoldo Nuti,2008-11-11 This edited volume is the first detailed exploration of the last phase of the Cold War taking a critical look at the crisis of détente in Europe in the late 1970s and early 1980s The transition from détente to a new phase of harsh confrontation and severe crises is an interesting indeed crucial phase of the evolution of the international system This book makes use of previously unreleased archival materials moving beyond existing interpretations of this period by challenging the traditional bipolar paradigm that focuses mostly on the role of the superpowers in the transformation of the international system The essays here emphasize the combination and the interplay of a large number of variables political ideological economic and military and explore the topic from a truly international perspective Issues covered include human rights the Euromissiles the CSCE Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe the Revolution in Military Affairs economic growth and its consequences Tactical Nuclear Weapons Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2020-11-19 In the 1970s tactical nuclear warfare was a topical issue The introduction of the new generation of tactical nuclear weapons into Europe could have had disastrous consequences These new weapons had already been developed by nuclear weapon laboratories and pressures were growing for their deployment On first sight smaller and more accurate nuclear weapons may seem more humane and militarily preferable to the relatively high yield tactical nuclear weapons currently deployed But some of these new types of weapons would blur the distinction between nuclear and conventional weapons and their use would make escalation to strategic nuclear war extremely likely Indeed the argument for these new weapons is that their use in wartime is more credible and therefore acceptable than current types of tactical nuclear weapons This perception could easily lead to the exceedingly dangerous idea that some types of tactical nuclear war were winnable The fact has to be faced that any use of nuclear weapons is almost certain to escalate until all available weapons are used To believe otherwise is to believe that one side will surrender before it has used all the weapons in its arsenal History shows that this is most unlikely to happen Because of its importance SIPRI organized a meeting to discuss the whole question Originally published in 1978 this book is the outcome of that meeting Journal of the House of Representatives of the United States United States. Congress. House, 2014 Some vols include supplemental journals of such proceedings of the sessions as during the time they were depending were ordered to be kept secret and respecting which the injunction of secrecy was afterwards taken off by the order of the House Forward in Europe , 1960
