Moving On In Whole Language:

Street Smarts and Critical Theory Thomas McLaughlin, 1996-11-01 Everybody's got a theory or do they Thomas McLaughlin argues that critical theory raising serious sustained questions about cultural practice and ideology is practiced not only by an academic elite but also by savvy viewers of sitcoms and TV news by Elvis fans and Trekkies by labor organizers and school teachers by the average person in the street Like academic theorists who are trained in a tradition of philosophical and political skepticism that challenges all orthodoxies the vernacular theorists McLaughlin identifies display a lively and healthy alertness to contradiction and propaganda They are not passive victims of ideology but active questioners of the belief systems that have power over their lives Their theoretical work arises from the circumstances they confront on the job in the family in popular culture And their questioning of established institutions McLaughlin contends is essential and healthy for it energizes other theorists who clarify the purpose and strategies of institutions and justify the existence of cultural practices Street Smarts and Critical Theory leads us through eye opening explorations of social activism in the Southern Christian anti pornography movement fan critiques in the zine scene New Age narratives of healing and transformation the methodical manipulations of the advertising profession and vernacular theory in the whole language movement Emphasizing that theory is itself a pervasive cultural practice McLaughlin calls on academic institutions to recognize and develop the theoretical strategies that students bring into the classroom This book demystifies the idea of theory taking it out of the hands of a priestly caste and showing it as the democratic endowment of the people Daniel T O'Hara Temple University author of Radical Parody American Culture and Critical Agency after Foucault and Lionel Trilling The Work of Liberation McLaughlin takes seriously the critical and theoretical activity of everyday people and does so in a way that will empower these very populations to take seriously their own activities as theorists A manifesto that is sure to be heard by the younger generation of thinkers in American cultural studies Henry Jenkins MIT author of Textual Poachers Television Fans and Participatory Culture

Inside Stories Kathleen B. deMarrais, 2012-12-06 Although articles reporting research studies are helpful in acquainting students with methodological approaches they often make the process look so straightforward clean and effortless It is rare to find an article that tells the real story behind the finished product By having real researchers tell their own stories of mucking around with methodological and ethical issues in qualitative research we get a more realistic human story of the process This is a collection of such stories Authors were asked to describe their own experiences with methodological and ethical struggles as they engaged in their work Each of the essays offers insight into the research approach used as well as particular issues which became apparent during the research process Key issues raised by the authors include early learnings gaining entry overlapping conflicting roles and the boundaries of these roles differential power relationships who tells the story and whose story is told ethical concerns related to confidentiality and the influence of a researcher's particular philosophy or theoretical framework on his or her research Throughout the book we see scholars whose personal stories or autobiographies intersect closely with their research projects deMarrais introduces a unique framework to help students gain an overview of qualitative research methods and the underpinnings and processes in these approaches This framework is centered on the ways we understand phenomena using qualitative research approaches that engage archival knowledge narrative knowledge or observational knowledge Whole Language Lou Willett Stanek,1993 Grade level 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 e i p t Instructional Models in Reading Steven A. Stahl,David A. Hayes,2013-04-03 This book started with a simple idea examine models of reading instruction that have emerged during the past 20 years These models span a wide range of instruction representing a continuum from highly structured task analytic instruction to child centered and holistic instruction Each model has its own epistemology or views on how reading and instruction are to be defined The different epistemologies indicate different principles of instruction which in turn indicate different practices in the classroom Each model is also supported by a different research base In this volume leading proponents of these different models discuss their ideas about reading instruction thereby encouraging readers to make their own comparisons and contrasts The chapter authors seem to adopt the editors eclectic approach to some greater or lesser extent incorporating aspects of other models into their instruction as they see other goals Thus models of reading instruction are complex Complicating matters further is the fact that teachers hold their own models of reading which may or may not be congruent with those discussed here Although academically developed models influence college preservice and in service instruction teachers own models of reading filter the information that they take from what they learn from these perspectives By carefully examining these variables this book makes a firm contribution toward disciplined inquiry into what it means to teach reading Understanding and Teaching Reading Emerald Dechant,2013-09-13 In the words of Aldous Huxley Every man who knows how to read has it in his power to magnify himself to multiply the ways in which he exists to make his life full significant and interesting Few people question the value of reading in fact most extol its virtues As our culture becomes more complex reading plays an increasingly greater role in satisfying personal needs and in promoting social awareness and growth In the last 20 years the teaching of this invaluable skill has focused so intensely on comprehension and prediction from context that it has lost sight of the significance of automaticity and fluency in the word identification process Reading is a synthesis of word recognition and comprehension thus this text is about these basic processes and their integration A common plea from teachers today is that research and psychology be translated into teaching behavior Therefore the aim of this book is twofold one to identify report organize and discuss those bits of data research and theory that are most relevant to the teacher s understanding of the reading process and two to help educators to interpret and apply theory and research data to everyday classroom teaching as well as to the problems encountered frequently in developmental and remedial teaching Between Worlds Linda Chisholm,2017-11-30 How the story of how missionary schools adopted the Bantu education reforms gives insight into the ongoing legacy of the apartheid in the South African educational system The transition from apartheid to the post apartheid era has highlighted questions about the past and the persistence of its influence in present day South Africa This is particularly so in education where the past continues to play a decisive role in relation to inequality Between Worlds German Missionaries and the Transition from Mission to Bantu Education in South Africa scrutinises the experience of a hitherto unexplored German mission society probing the complexities and paradoxes of social change in education It raises challenging questions about the nature of mission education legacies Linda Chisholm shows that the transition from mission to Bantu Education was far from seamless Instead past and present interpenetrated one another with resistance and compliance cohabiting in a complex new social order At the same time as missionaries complied with the new Bantu Education dictates they sought to secure a role for themselves in the face of demands of local communities for secular state controlled education When the latter was implemented in a perverted form from the mid 1950s one of its tools was textbooks in local languages developed by mission societies as part of a transnational project with African participation Introduced under the guise of expunging European control Bantu Education merely served to reinforce such control The response of local communities was an attempt to domesticate and master the foreign body of the mission so as to create access to a larger world This book focuses on the ensuing struggle fought on many fronts including medium of instruction and textbook content with concomitant sub texts relating to gender roles and sexuality South Africa s educational history is to this day informed by networks of people and ideas crossing geographic and racial boundaries The colonial legacy has inevitably involved cultural mixing and hybridisation with paradoxically parallel pleas for purity Chisholm explores how these ideas found expression in colliding and coalescing worlds one African the other European caught between mission and apartheid education

Reading Instruction in America Barbara Ruth Peltzman, 2015-09-18 The diversity of student populations in the United States presents educators with many challenges To provide effective reading instruction for the individual student teachers must understand the enormous variety of reading methods and materials that exist and make independent decisions based on their students particular needs Research indicates that educators are often influenced by reading instruction fads that quickly fade making it more challenging to develop a repertoire of teaching strategies in which a teacher may have confidence This book examines a variety of reading methods used in American schools from the 19th to the 21st century and the literature promoting or critiquing them to help teachers become informed decision makers and better meet the needs of students Moving Critical Literacies Forward Jessica Pandya, Julianna Ávila, 2013-11-26 Taking the pulse of current efforts to do and in some cases undo critical literacy this volume explores and critiques its implementation in learning contexts around the globe An impressive set of international authors offer examples of productive critical literacy practices in and out of schools address the tensions and gaps between these practices and educational policies and attempt to forecast the future for critical literacy as a movement in the changing global educational policy landscape This collection is unique in presenting the recent work of luminaries such as Allan Luke and Hilary Janks alongside relative newcomers who use innovative approaches and arguments to reinvigorate and redefine critical practice It is time for this cutting edge inquiry into the state of critical literacy not only because is it a complex and ever evolving field but perhaps more important because it offers a reaction to and powerful reworking of standardization and high stakes accountability measures in educational contexts around the globe
