

POLITICS WEEK 5 NOTES

Discipline based approaches to the study of politics

- Approaches that are drawn from other disciplines
- Modern disciplinary knowledges are never able to give you a complete picture of phenomenon or problem being studied
- Kind of questions are chosen by those within the discipline
- Discipline based approaches emerge at the intersection of political science and another discipline
- Eg. Politics+ Economics= political economy approach
 - Benefit is that it enables political science to give priority to an economic view, an analysis of the economy through political science
 - Marxism + liberalism
- Discipline based approaches suffer the same limitations as other disciplines being studied
- Eg. Politics + psychology= political behaviour/political dynamics
 - How particular groups/people behave in politics
 - Political behaviour is necessary to conduct a poll
 - Maybe politics can help understand the behaviour of people(benefit)
- Eg. Politics + sociology= political sociology
 - Interrelation between human beings and society
 - Function at the level of abstraction(politics)
 - Interrelation has impact on nature of politics
 - What is the nature of interrelation between men and women in politics, helps us understand
 - what are the conditions of possibility that enables politicians to make statements that deal with women in such a disapproving manner and makes them possible
- eg. Politics + philosophy= political philosophy/political theory
 - philosophy is an enquiry into epistemology
 - concerned with the normative good of society
 - enabled us to be concerned with the politics of knowledge production
 - philosophy asks what constitutes knowledge
 - where did the knowledge come from/what does that knowledge exclude /why do we consider it
 - a return of normative questions
 - helped legitimate political theory and normative questions which had been pushed out of the centre by the behavioural revolution
- Politics + geography= political geography
 - Two types: human geography(social science)/natural geography(science)
 - Enabled us to understand things that we possibly wouldn't have understood without the intervention of geography

History David M. Rabban, 2013 This is a study of the central role of history in late nineteenth century American legal thought In the decades following the Civil War the founding generation of professional legal scholars in the United States drew from the evolutionary social thought that pervaded Western intellectual life on both sides of the Atlantic Their historical analysis of law as an inductive science rejected deductive theories and supported moderate legal reform conclusions that challenge conventional accounts of legal formalism Unprecedented in its coverage and its innovative conclusions about major American legal thinkers from the Civil War to the present the book combines transatlantic intellectual history legal history the history of legal thought historiography jurisprudence constitutional theory and the history of higher education The Magazine of
