guide to style and usage Academy-Industry Relationships and Partnerships Tracy Bridgeford,Kirk St. Amant,2017-07-05
In the field of technical communication academics and industry practitioners alike regularly encounter the same question What exactly is it you do Their responses often reveal a fundamental difference of perspective on what the field is and how it operates For example academics might discuss ideas in terms of rhetorical theory while practitioners might explain concepts through more practical approaches involving best business practices And such differences can have important implications for how the field as a whole moves forward over time This collection explores ideas related to forging effective academia industry relationships and partnerships so members of the field can begin a dialogue designed to foster communication and collaboration among academics and industry practitioners in technical communication To address the various factors that can affect such interactions the contributions in this collection represent a broad range of approaches that technical communicators can use to establish effective academy industry partnerships and relationships in relation to an area of central interest to both education The 11 chapters thus present different perspectives on and ideas for achieving this goal In so doing the contributors discuss programmatic concerns workplace contexts outreach programs and research and writing The result is a text that examines different general contexts in which academia industry relationships and partnerships can be established and maintained It also provides readers with a reference for exploring such interactions Subject Guide to Books in Print ,2001

Topline, Bottom Line: A Simple, Brief, Comprehensive, and Irreverent Writing Guide for Professionals Robert Levine,2017-11-19 Topline Bottom Line opens by stressing the importance of good writing to business in the Information Age Part One devotes a chapter each to grammar spelling punctuation accuracy of word choice the impact of word choice on writing s tone or style structuring sentences and paragraphs organizing documents and the composition process Part Two presents strategies for the most common types of business writing resum s and cover letters other correspondence company newsletter articles descriptive writing like instructions and job descriptions expository writing such as project reports and employee reviews and persuasive writing like proposals The conclusion asserts that words convey information as definitively as numbers requiring an equal level of precision in their use it also counsels that writing is an art not a science because only the unique circumstances of each writing situation determine what works best for that situation
