Orphan Of Asia:

Orphan of Asia Zhuoliu Wu, 2008-03-22 Born in Taiwan raised in the scholarly traditions of ancient China but forced into the Japanese educational system Hu Taiming the protagonist of Orphan of Asia ultimately finds himself estranged from all three cultures Taiming eventually makes his mark in the colonial Japanese educational system and graduates from a prestigious college However he finds that his Japanese education and his adoption of modern ways have alienated him from his family and native village He becomes a teacher in the Japanese colonial system but soon quits his post and finds that having repudiated his roots he doesn't seem to belong anywhere Thus begins the long journey for Taiming to find his rightful place during which he is accused of spying for both China and Japan and witnesses the effects of Japanese imperial expansion the horrors of war and the sense of anger and powerlessness felt by those living under colonial rule Zhuoliu Wu's autobiographical novel is widely regarded as a classic of modern Asian literature and a groundbreaking expression of the postwar Taiwanese national consciousness

Becoming Japanese Leo T. S. Ching, 2001-06-30 In 1895 Japan acquired Taiwan as its first formal colony after a resounding victory in the Sino Japanese war For the next fifty years Japanese rule devastated and transformed the entire socioeconomic and political fabric of Taiwanese society In Becoming Japanese Leo Ching examines the formation of Taiwanese political and cultural identities under the dominant Japanese colonial discourse of assimilation doka and imperialization kōminka from the early 1920s to the end of the Japanese Empire in 1945 Becoming Japanese analyzes the ways in which the Taiwanese struggled negotiated and collaborated with Japanese colonialism during the cultural practices of assimilation and imperialization It chronicles a historiography of colonial identity formations that delineates the shift from a collective and heterogeneous political horizon into a personal and inner struggle of becoming Japanese Representing Japanese colonialism in Taiwan as a topography of multiple associations and identifications made possible through the triangulation of imperialist Japan nationalist China and colonial Taiwan Ching demonstrates the irreducible tension and contradiction inherent in the formations and transformations of colonial identities Throughout the colonial period Taiwanese elites imagined and constructed China as a discursive space where various forms of cultural identification and national affiliation were projected Successfully bridging history and literary studies this bold and imaginative book rethinks the history of Japanese rule in Taiwan by radically expanding its approach to colonial discourses

Women in Taiwan Ya-chen Chen, 2009 In the English language publication market this book is one of the earliest and perhaps the first academic book focusing on Taiwanese women and gender issues from the late Qing Dynasty to the twenty first century It features the interrelations between cultural trends and women in Taiwan In most current Western research and academic institution Taiwanese studies deals with modern Taiwan since the Qing Dynasty or the Opium War to the contemporary era and usually belongs to the division of Chinese studies or modern Chinese studies in the overall area of Asian studies Historically and socioculturally however cultural dimensions in Taiwan are not exactly the same as those in mainland China and Hong Kong This book sets itself apart by providing a bird s eye view of gender issues impacted by diverse cultures in Taiwan from the Japanese colonial era to the present century Theorizing Colonial Cinema Nayoung Aimee Kwon,Takushi Odagiri,Moonim Baek,2022-02 Theorizing Colonial Cinema is a millennial retrospective on the entangled intimacy between film and colonialism from film s global inception to contemporary legacies in and of Asia The volume engages new perspectives by asking how prior discussions on film form theory history and ideology may be challenged by centering the colonial question rather than relegating it to the periphery To that end contributors begin by excavating little known archives and perspectives from the colonies as a departure from a prevailing focus on Europe s imperial histories and archives about the colonies The collection pinpoints various forms of devaluation and misrecognition both in and beyond the region that continue to relegate local voices to the margins This pathbreaking study on global film history advances prior scholarship by bringing together an array of established and new interdisciplinary voices from film studies Asian studies and postcolonial studies to consider how the present is continually haunted by the colonial past Winner of the SCMS Best Edited Collection Award Pop Culture in Asia and Oceania Jeremy A. Emerging Infections in Asia Yichen Lu,Max Essex,Bryan Roberts,2008-03-13 The number of people who live in Asia is greater than the total number of people who live in the rest of the world More than 160 cities in Asia have a population of at least one million people Thus when new infectious diseases threaten populations in Asia huge segments of the global population are at risk At the same time Asians are thoroughly integrated with the rest of the world providing skilled expertise and becoming trading partners in all continents Infectious diseases ordinarily show no preference for infection or disease according to race or ethnic background A few exceptions exist due to the host pathogen evolution that happened before the recent era of rapid travel Such exceptions occur usually because the infectious agent was newly introduced to one population only after having existed and evolved for hundreds or thousands of years in a different population As air travel became popular in the last few generations of people it became increasingly difficult for populations to remain in isolation Thus in 2003 SARS in China rapidly became SARS in Canada Throughout history a major source of new infections of people has been old infections of animals For some such as Ebola or Lassa transmission to people is rare and self limiting though frighteningly lethal for the few unfortunate individuals who get infected And Ebola and Lassa are indigenous for Africa not Asia
