At the End of the Street in the Shadow Matthew Asprey Gear, 2016-02-16 The films of Orson Welles inhabit the spaces of cities from America's industrializing midland to its noirish borderlands from Europe's medieval fortresses to its Kafkaesque labyrinths and postwar rubblescapes His movies take us through dark streets to confront nightmarish struggles for power the carnivalesque and bizarre and the shadows and light of human character This ambitious new study explores Welles's vision of cities by following recurring themes across his work including urban transformation race relations and fascism the utopian promise of cosmopolitanism and romantic nostalgia for archaic forms of urban culture It focuses on the personal and political foundation of Welles's cinematic cities the way he invents urban spaces on film to serve his dramatic thematic and ideological purposes The book's critical scope draws on extensive research in international archives and builds on the work of previous scholars Viewing Welles as a radical filmmaker whose innovative methods were only occasionally compatible with the commercial film industry this volume examines the filmmaker's original vision for butchered films such as The Magnificent Ambersons 1942 and Mr Arkadin 1955 and considers many projects the filmmaker never completed an immense shadow oeuvre ranging from unfinished and unreleased films to unrealized treatments and screenplays Citizen

Film Noir Pettey Homer B. Pettey, 2014-11-11 Explores the development of film noir as a cultural and artistic phenomenon. This book traces the development of what we know as film noir from the proto noir elements of Feuillade's silent French crime series and German Expressionism to the genre's mid twentieth century popularization and influence on contemporary global media. By employing experimental lighting effects, oblique camera angles, distorted compositions, and shifting points of view, film noir's style both creates and comments upon a morally adumbrated world where the alienating effects of the uncanny, the fetishistic, and the surreal dominate. What drew original audiences to film noir is an immediate recognition of this modern social and psychological reality. Much of the appeal of film noir concerns its commentary on social anxieties, its cynical view of political and capitalist corruption, and its all too brutal depictions of American modernity. This book examines the changing, often volatile shifts in representations of masculinity and femininity as well as the genre's complex relationship with Afro American culture, observable through noir's musical and sonic experiments. Key features: Traces the history of film noir from its aesthetic antecedents through its mid century popularization to its influence on contemporary global media. Discusses the influence of literary and artistic sources on the development of film noir. Includes extensive bibliographies, filmographies, and recommended noir film viewing. Concludes with a reflective chapter by Alain Silver and James Ursini on their own influential studies and collections on film noir criticism.
