Politics Of Professionalism Teachers And The Curriculum:

The Politics of Professionalism Gary McCulloch, Gill Helsby, Peter Knight, 2000-05-01 Many commentators feared that the Education Reform Act of 1988 sounded the death knell for teacher professionalism in Britain. More than a decade later, however, professionalism appears to have staged a miraculous recovery. David Blunkett says that it is back at the very heart of teaching. But what kind of professionalism is this? In whose interest is its recovery and what effects will it have? And how does this development relate to changes in other countries and other professions? The Politics of Professionalism provides authoritative answers to these questions. It does so by setting the debates in their historical context and by drawing on detailed research findings on teachers' experience of work and education, especially the curriculum in the current era. In the process, this book makes a major contribution to our understanding of the politics, history and sociology of teaching and the other professions.

Educational Decentralization Christopher Bjork, 2007-03-23 Decentralization and Education: Asian Experiences and Conceptual Contributions examines the specific ways in which decentralization policies have affected the structure and delivery of education in eleven Asian nations. Written by top scholars in the field, the case studies provide detailed and rich empirical evidence documenting the tensions as well as synergisms between the ideas that form the basis of decentralization policy and the contexts into which they are introduced. The high quality of this collection of essays and the careful attention to local contexts for implementation will make this book a must read for academics, policy planners, practitioners and students of Asia.

Educators, Professionalism and Politics Terri Seddon, John Levin, 2013 This title brings together contributions from around the world that analyse and reflect on the way curriculum is configuring and reconfiguring that world.

Preparation, Practice, and Politics of Teachers Mark Ginsburg, 2013-02-11 This edited volume, based on papers presented at the World Congress of Comparative Education, Istanbul 2010, presents research examining pre-service teacher education in service teacher development and the politics of teachers' work in a variety of geographical regions including Asia, Africa, Eurasia, Europe, Latin America and North America. More specifically, the chapters examine the situations, activities and education of teachers in the societal contexts of Cuba, Equatorial Guinea, France, Germany, Ghana, Hong Kong, Ireland, Lithuania, The Netherlands, Scotland, Spain, Turkey and the United States. The authors address a variety of important questions related to a group of employees who are key actors in determining the quality of education: How can pre-service teacher education best be organized for different purposes in various settings? What kinds of activities should be organized and who should be involved in in-service professional development to promote teacher capacity and commitment to perform their roles in classrooms and communities? What kinds of incentives can motivate teachers' engagement with various aspects of their work? How do certain educational policies and reforms promote the professionalization or the deprofessionalization and proletarianization of teaching? What are the opportunities and constraints for teachers as they seek to operate within the micro-politics of schools and the macro-politics of society? The book thus contributes to refining our understanding of the critical theoretical issues in the field of comparative and international education as well as calling attention to dynamics that should be considered in developing and implementing as well as critiquing and resisting educational policies in varying contexts

Handbook of Teacher Education Tony Townsend, Richard Bates, 2006-08-09 This book has its origins in conversations that started when the International Council on Education for Teaching ICET and the Australian Teacher Education Association ATEA jointly agreed to co sponsor a World Assembly of Teacher Educators in Melbourne in July 2003 hosted by Monash University The editors of this book were not only intimately involved in the management of the conference but had also been key figures in the Associations involved Tony Townsend had been secretary and on the national board of the South Pacific Association for Teacher Education SPATE which later became ATEA and had previously managed a SPATE conference in Frankston Australia in the 1980s He is currently the President of ICET and now works at Florida Atlantic University Richard Bates has been a long time board member of ATEA and is currently President of that organization He is also a Board member of ICET The International Council on Education for Teaching ICET was founded in 1953 for the purpose of emphasizing international cooperation in educational development in order to improve the quality of teacher education as well as to expand global educational opportunities for people in teacher education Since that time ICET has developed into an international association of practitioners of teacher education policy and decision makers in education government and business dedicated to global development through education ICET is a Non Governmental Organization NGO and participates in NGO meetings and other UNESCO sponsored conferences around the world

Crisis, Austerity, and New Frameworks for Teaching and Learning Maria Chalari, 2019-05-28 This book attempts to examine the educational consequences of the recent social and economic situation in Greece and it explores on a general level new possibilities for teaching and learning at times of national crisis Using Greece as an exemplary case Maria Chalari demonstrates how the relationship between neo liberalism and education is especially salient during difficult times it also demonstrates the effect of this relationship on teachers day to day experiences By attending to yet moving beyond the negative implications of socio economic crisis this volume aims to present core educational values of the current era as well as the crucial issues that may become opportunities for reflection and change

Education, Reform and the State John Furlong, Robert Phillips, 2002-11 This book supplies the definitive contemporary history of education policy in the late twentieth century Some of the leading educationalists reflect on the major legislative and structural changes in the field over the last 25 years The Politics of Teacher Professional Development Ian Hardy, 2012 The Politics of Teacher Professional Development Policy Research and Practice provides innovative insights into teachers continuing development and learning in contemporary western contexts Rather than providing a list of how to and must dos this volume is premised on the understanding that by learning more about the current conditions under which teachers and other educators work and learn it is possible to understand and consequently improve the learning opportunities teachers experience Teacher professional development is not simply construed as an isolated series of events such as day long workshops marking the beginning of each school year or term or individualistic one off activities focused on new teaching approaches curricula or assessment strategies Rather through application of sociologist Pierre Bourdieu's understanding of social practices as contested teacher professional development is revealed as a complex social practice which exists as policy as a research product and process and as an important part of teachers work The book reveals how PD as policy research and teachers work are inherently contested An extended series of case studies of teacher professional development practices from Canada England and Australia are employed to show how these tensions play out in complex ways in policy and practice From Technicians to Teachers Leon Benade, 2012-12-06 From Technicians to Teachers provides theoretical and practical reasons for suggesting that widespread international curriculum reform of the post 1990 period need not deprofessionalise teaching The widely held deprofessionalisation thesis is both compelling and fatalistic leading to a despairing sense that teachers are either no more than technicians or that they can be reprofessionalised through definitions of effective teachers promoted by the reforms However there are many teachers who do not see their work in either of these ways The book is structured around an in depth case study detailing the implementation of The New Zealand Curriculum in that nation one of the best international examples of neoliberal reform Benade argues that curriculum policy can and should be analysed critically while pointing out the dangers for ethical teachers that can exist in national or state curricula Energising and inspiring this book reminds teachers and teacher educators that although they work in a globalised context their own role is fundamental and has a profoundly ethical basis despite the negative impacts of three decades of education reform Politics of Classroom Life Nobuo K. Shimahara, 2014-04-08 The growing economic competition among the world's industrialized and developing nations has spurred comparisons and examinations of national school systems An important aspect of any school system is school and classroom management which is an indicator of the ultimate goals that a nation has for its future workers In this volume international scholars examine the daily life of elementary school classrooms in six nations with complex economies an international presence and salient minority and immigrant populations These original essays analyze contemporary classroom management practices and policies as well as their historical and theoretical frameworks
