COST PLUS PRICING

Cost-plus pricing is a pricing strategy in which a company determines the cost of producing a product or service and then adds a markup to establish the selling price. This markup is intended to cover both the direct costs (such as materials, labor, and overhead) and indirect costs (such as administrative expenses and a reasonable profit margin).

Selling Price

The selling price is the amount at which a product or service is offered for sale to customers. It represents the revenue a business earns from selling its goods or services.

The selling price is influenced by various factors, including:

1. Costs: The total cost of producing or acquiring the product, including direct costs (e.g., materials, labor) and indirect costs (e.g., overhead, operating expenses).
2. Markup: The amount added to the cost to cover expenses and generate a profit. The markup is often expressed as a percentage of the cost.
3. Market Conditions: Supply and demand, competitor pricing, and customer preferences all play a role in setting the selling price.

The formulas for selling price are:

- $\text{Selling Price} = \text{Total Cost} + (\text{Total Cost} \times \text{Markup Percentage})$
