Technology Development and Platform Enhancements for Successful Global E-Government Design Bwalya, Kelvin Joseph, 2013-12-31 While electronic research has developed in many governments around the world the majority of its research has focused on the supply and demand aspects of e government instead of the focus on technology integration for successful e government design Technology Development and Platform Enhancements for Successful Global E Government Design compiles the shared experiences of e government designers and practitioners with a focus on technological design By highlighting the different technological nuances that need to be incorporated into successful e government designs this book is a useful tool for professionals and researchers concerned with the organizational development in different types of e government communities and environments Enacting Electronic Government Success J. Ramon Gil-Garcia, 2012-02-28 Many countries around the world are investing a great amount of resources in government IT initiatives However few of these projects achieve their stated goals and some of them are complete failures Therefore understanding e government success has become very important and urgent in recent years In order to develop relevant knowledge about this complex phenomenon researchers and practitioners need to identify and assess what are the main conditions variables or factors that have an impact on e government success However before being able to evaluate these impacts it is necessary to define what e government success is and what some e government success measures are This book presents a review of both e government success measures and e government success factors It also provides empirical evidence from quantitative analysis and two in depth case studies Although based on sound theory and rigorous empirical analysis the book not only significantly contributes to academic knowledge but also includes some practical recommendations for government officials and public managers Theoretically the book proposes a way to quantitatively operationalize Fountain s enactment framework Based on the institutional tradition the technology enactment framework attempts to explain the effects of organizational forms and institutional arrangements on the information technology used by government agencies According to Fountain 1995 2001 the technology enactment framework pays attention to the relationships among information technology organizations embeddedness and institutions This framework is very well known in the e government field but is normally used for qualitative analysis and there is no previous proposal of how to use it with quantitative data The book proposes variables to measure each of the different constructs in this framework and also tests the relationships hypothesized by Fountain's theory. Finally, using the advantages of the selected quantitative analysis technique, Partial Least Squares, the study also proposes some adjustments and extensions to the original framework in a theory building effort. Methodologically, the book reports on one of the first multi-method studies in the field of e-government in general and e-government success in particular. This study uses a nested research design which combines statistical analysis with two in-depth case studies. The study begins with a statistical analysis using organizational, institutional, and contextual factors as the independent variables. An overall score representing e-government success in terms of the functionality of state websites is the dependent variable. Second, based on the statistical results, two cases are selected based on their relative fitness to the model residuals and their position in the general ranking of website functionality, which includes four different measures. In order to complement the results of the statistical analysis, case studies were developed for the two selected states, New York and Indiana, using semi-structured interviews and document analysis. In terms of the statistical analysis, the book constitutes one of the first applications of Partial Least Squares (PLS) to an e-government success study. PLS is a structural equations modeling (SEM) technique and therefore allows estimating the measurement model and the structural model simultaneously. The use of this sophisticated statistical strategy helped to test the relationships between e-government success and different factors influencing it, as well as some of the relationships between several of the factors, thus allowing exploring some indirect effects too.

The Internet and Governance in Asia Indrajit Banerjee, 2007 This book constitutes a first ever attempt to map the impact of the Internet on governance in Asia. It examines key implications for democratization, cyber security, e-government, technical coordination, and Internet policy and regulation. The book is divided into five sections: Internet and Democracy, ways in which the Internet has been harnessed to promote greater democratization, public debate, and political participation; E-Government, the provision of services through the Internet and other ICT networks, and its impact on public accountability and transparency; Cyber Security, the critical issues and concerns such as surveillance, as well as the means by which the Internet can be effectively used to improve security, as well as minimize risks from terrorism; Internet Governance, critical issues relating to the technical coordination of the Internet and the prospects for the best possible means to govern the structure and operations of the Internet; and Internet Policy and Regulation, key policy and regulatory issues and concerns relating to the use and impact of the Internet. The three chapters in each of the sections provide a diversity of perspectives covering each of the specific issues addressed by the section. The idea here is to provide readers with different perspectives and case studies on the same issue.
