Short-term Anxiety-provoking Psychotherapy Peter E. Sifneos, 1992-05-04 Short Term Anxiety Provoking Psychotherapy STAPP is the oldest systematically studied type of brief psychotherapy in the United States Developed in the 1950s by Peter Sifneos it has become increasingly popular in recent years Mental health professionals in Europe and the Americas have flocked to Sifneos's workshops seminars and lectures Now at last in response to numerous requests for information Sifneos has compiled this step by step guide to his method STAPP represents a distillation of traditional psychoanalytic techniques tapping the patient's ability both to establish a transference relationship with the therapist and to understand the roots of psychological conflicts Although designed to help relatively healthy people with a single circumscribed emotional problem STAPP gives patients the tools for dealing with future problems after therapy has terminated The short term in STAPP usually represents several months and rarely exceeds a year a time span that not only eases the financial burden but contributes to the likelihood that the patient will complete the course of therapy The anxiety provoking component Sifneos says reflects the therapist's role as a teacher an objective person who raises questions that wouldn't have occurred to the patient precisely because they are anxiety inducing With its rich clinical material this manual provides innumerable examples of new options available to therapists enlarging and enriching their therapeutic armamentarium BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved
