

"Blind" / "The Blind Seer of Ambohi" / "On His Blindness"

Patricia Hewitt / W.S. Merwin / Jorge Luis Borges

Analogy

An analogy is a way of comparing two things to explain something complex or unfamiliar by likening it to something more familiar. It's like saying, "This is similar to that," to help people understand the concept better. For example, explaining how a cell works by comparing it to a factory, where different parts of the cell are like different parts of the factory.

Directions: Answer the following questions about analogies found in the poems using complete sentences.

1. In the poem "Blind," the speaker talks about a "dimmed memory" in certain parts of the poem. What memory is this, and how does the speaker use this idea to think about being blind?
2. In the beginning of "The Blind Seer of Ambohi," the speaker talks about coming from a "different language" and still saying "first words." What does the speaker mean by this "different language"? And how does this comparison help us understand what it's like to be blind?
3. In "On His Blindness," the speaker talks about a "bright mist" that "surrounds me all the time," making everything seem the same, without color or shape. What does the speaker mean by this "bright mist," and why does he say it makes everything look the same and without any color or shape?

Word Choice

Sensory details are words and descriptions that help you experience things using your senses—like what you can see, hear, smell, taste, or feel. They make writing more vivid by painting a picture in your mind. For example, instead of just saying "the flower," sensory details might describe the flower as "aromatic red roses with a sweet fragrance."

Imagery involves using sensory details in words and phrases to paint a picture in the minds of readers.

Juxtaposition means putting two different things next to each other to show how they're alike or different. One way to do this is by using an oxymoron, which is when you put two words together that mean the opposite of each other. For instance, "open secret" is an oxymoron because it's like saying something is both known and not known at the same time.

Directions: Underline the sensory details in the following excerpts from the poems that are juxtaposed. Then tell what ideas are being juxtaposed.

1. "When she danced with Lamea/On the hillside,/He told her that the soul can transcend earthly life;/ If freed from the retina."
2. "I may have sensed somewhat strange,/aring in my own time for living things,/with no voice that we know;/languages wash over them, she notes at a time."
3. "The element of vast night and the day,/warming with people have become that flag of constant, tentative light that does not flag,/and lies in wait at dawn."

Sight Behind Blindness A Collection Of Poetry:

Sight Behind Blindness: A Collection of Poetry Carolyn L. Miller, 2002-12-01 To read these poems is to experience life through the eyes of a tiny ant carrying food to its nest or to imagine yourself as a mosquito intent on biting humans While she expertly uses the natural world to help the reader see life in a new way she will also bring you deep inside yourself to view your own soul Her gentle poetry will forever change the way you see yourself and your relationship to the world

Blindness in Literature of the Romantic Period Edward Larrissy, 2007-06-19 In the first full length literary historical study of its subject Edward Larrissy examines the philosophical and literary background to representations of blindness and the blind in the Romantic period In detailed studies of literary works he goes on to show how the topic is central to an understanding of British and Irish Romantic literature While he considers the influence of Milton and the Ossian poems as well as of philosophers including Locke Diderot Berkeley and Thomas Reid much of the book is taken up with new readings of writers of the period These include canonical authors such as Blake Wordsworth Scott Byron Keats and Percy and Mary Shelley as well as less well known writers such as Charlotte Brooke and Ann Batten Cristall There is also a chapter on the popular genre of improving tales for children by writers such as Barbara Hofland and Mary Sherwood Larrissy finds that despite the nostalgia for a bardic age of inward vision the chief emphasis in the period is on the compensations of enhanced sensitivity to music and words This compensation becomes associated with the loss and gain involved in the modernity of a post bardic age Representations of blindness and the blind are found to elucidate a tension at the heart of the Romantic period between the desire for immediacy of vision on the one hand and on the other the historical self consciousness which always attends it
